WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The general area in which Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., alleged kidnapper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, is hiding is known by the department of justice and his capture is a matter of but a short time, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the division of investigation of the justice department, said today.

Thirty or more justice department agents and hundreds of local police officers have been concentrated on the search.

Hoover said he anticipated Robinson and others involved in the case would be indicted by a federal grand jury at Louisville today. They will be charged with violation of the federal kidnapping law and will face a death penalty on conviction.

Heavy Penalty
"Any one who harbors Robinson or in any way gives him aid or assistance knowing that he is wanted by the federal authorities for kidnapping will be prosecuted," Hoover declared.

"The maximum penalty for the offense of harboring one sought for violation of the kidnapping or other federal law is ten years imprisonment and a ten thousand dollar fine."

Hoover said this provision of the federal law was one of the most

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Harry Whitney was reported recovering at her Fifth avenue home today from a heart attack believed to have been brought on by the nervous strain of her court battle to retain custody of Gloria Vanderbilt, her 10-year-old niece.

Following Mrs. Whitney's testimony the mother's case will open, giving counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt an opportunity to cross-examine her.

President Discusses Career Of Jefferson At Williamsburg, Va.

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Oct. 20.—The career of Thomas Jefferson was the theme of President Roosevelt's speech of acceptance of an honorary degree from the college of William and Mary today.

Thomas Jefferson studied here for two years and remained five years longer to pursue legal research. President Roosevelt who has been accused of deserting Jeffersonian principles, devoted the great part of his address to a delineation of his career and an exposition of Jefferson's policies.

Father Of American Education
"I like to think of Thomas Jefferson, not only as a statesman, but as the enlightened father of American education," the president said; "It is entirely fitting that a statesman should have been also an educator. As education grows it becomes the partner of government."

The words of the chief executive were viewed as an additional endorsement of his famous Brain Trust. It was recalled that the president in his last academic speech at Yale championed the employment of professors as public officials.

The president said that President Jefferson profited by the intellectual leadership of George Wythe, whom he appraised as "one of the greatest men of his age."

The president, however, added: "Law in itself is not enough. Man must build himself more broadly. The purpose of education, shown by these various subjects of instruction indicated by the builder of William and Mary, was not to train specialists, but to educate men broadly. They were attempting to train not (Continued On Page Two)

(International News Service)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Oct. 20.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was New Jersey's prisoner today—occupant of cell No. 1 in the Flemington jailhouse on the first stop of what Jersey officials boast will be a speedy but fair trip to the electric chair at Trenton.

Leaving backward in their plan to give the New York carpenter every courtesy in their power, New Jersey officials changed plans at the 11th hour and announced that Hauptmann would not be arraigned today on the charge for which he stands indicted—murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Because he is already indicted and lodged in jail here with the consent of the governor of New York state, Hauptmann will be held in his cell until next week for the final arraignment, which—in New York state—would be the first step in the legal procedure.

Whisked Out of New York.
Pale and shivering, more discouraged than at any other time since his arrest, exactly a month ago, Hauptmann was whisked out of the Bronx county jail in New York City last night at the climax of a dramatic last ditch fight by his counsel to save him from prosecution in New Jersey.

Heavy Penalty

"Any one who harbors Robinson or in any way gives him aid or assistance knowing that he is wanted by the federal authorities for kidnapping will be prosecuted," Hoover declared.

"The maximum penalty for the offense of harboring one sought for violation of the kidnapping or other federal law is ten years imprisonment and a ten thousand dollar fine."

Hoover said this provision of the federal law was one of the most (Continued On Page Two) the county from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Syling will be assisted by Alex McCready of New Wilmington as assistant chairman.

Mr. Syling served as chairman of the roll call last year, when a very creditable showing was made throughout the county. With an urgent need for funds, both by the local chapter and the national Red Cross, it is expected that the response this year will be just as generous as it has been in the past.

It is planned to have a dinner on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7, here, when the sub-chairmen in the different districts in the county will be addressed by a national speaker and the supplies for the 1934 roll call will be given out.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, American entrants in the London-Melbourne air race, reported by wireless at 6:40 a. m. E. S. T. today they had crossed Italy and were heading for Athens.

Turner reported his twin engines were functioning perfectly. Bitter weather was encountered over the Alps.

John Wright and John Polando, other American entries, arrived at Rome at 11:40 a. m. and five minutes later Squadron Leader D. E. Stodart and K. G. Stodart of Great Britain, brought their plane down at the Rome airport.

The first serious American setback occurred when Jacqueline Cochrane, girl flier of New York, who was hailed as the "mystery entry" in the race, was forced down at the Bucharest airport and abandoned the contest.

MILDENHALL, Eng., Oct. 20.—Flagged away at intervals of less than a minute, 20 of the world's finest airplanes zoomed into the air with machine-like precision from this airport today to begin the long-planned England-to-Australia air derby, the longest and most hazardous race in the history of aviation.

Three American entries and five American-made planes were among the starters. Forty-three men and four women, their number including many of the world's foremost pilots, were to fly the 20 planes over (Continued On Page Two)

New Directors For Chamber Of Commerce

Final Election Is Completed With Selection Of Six New Directors Friday

WILL REORGANIZE IN NEAR FUTURE

Six directors to serve for the next three years were named by members of the Chamber of Commerce last week, the ballots being counted on Friday afternoon, when it was found that W. W. Duff, William F. Moody, L. G. Genkinger, R. C. Love, John H. Lamb, and R. W. Rowland, had received the most votes in the order named.

The number of ballots cast was considerably larger than at the primary election, showing a deep interest among the members in the election.

The election committee was composed of Mayor Charles B. Mayne, chairman; Paul T. Hoagland, serving for Thomas M. Boyle; Charles E. Allen, J. S. Meyer, and Howard M. Kirk, Jr.

A reorganization meeting of the board of directors, for the purpose of electing the officers for the coming year, will take place in the near future, when the new directors will be inducted into office.

Mrs. Harry Whitney Has Heart Attack

Believe Strain Of Trial For Little Gloria Vanderbilt Brought On Attack

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney was reported recovering at her Fifth avenue home today from a heart attack believed to have been brought on by the nervous strain of her court battle to retain custody of Gloria Vanderbilt, her 10-year-old niece.

Attending physicians said the seizure was not serious, and that she probably would be able to testify Monday at the resumption of the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings brought by the child's mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt. Mrs. Whitney was said to be determined to take the witness stand.

Following Mrs. Whitney's testimony the mother's case will open, giving counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt an opportunity to subject her sister-in-law to rigorous cross-examination.

Well, you should see it under construction. It will be finished in less than a year, two and one-half years ahead of time. They have done a great job. If they decide to plow under every third dam, they're going to have a tough time with this one.

Found the best way I ever went to Arizona—by a cable and a bucket. The dam grows a foot high a day. That sounds like Oklahoma weeds. One old boy got fired from down in there the other day and as he walked out he got on a high peak and declared: "I hope she leaks."

That sounds like a rich republican's wish to the New Deal. They "hope it leaks."

Manila Fears New Typhoon

(International News Service)

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 20.—A new typhoon was scheduled to strike Manila, still staggering under the smashing blows of Tuesday's disastrous storm, late today.

The weather bureau here hoisted signals and radioed warnings to all shipping, urging vessels to make harbor at once.

Communications were still paralyzed as a result of Tuesday's storm and it was impossible to warn provincial capitals of the impending blow.

The weather bureau this morning reported that the present typhoon is now near Daet Camarines Norte, and if the present direction and velocity continue it will strike Manila sometime this evening.

President Discusses Career Of Jefferson At Williamsburg, Va.

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Oct. 20.—The career of Thomas Jefferson was the theme of acceptance of an honorary degree from the college of William and Mary today.

Thomas Jefferson studied here for two years and remained five years longer to pursue legal research. President Roosevelt, who has been accused of deserting Jeffersonian principles, devoted the great part of his address to a delineation of his career and an exposition of Jefferson's policies.

Father Of American Education
"I like to think of Thomas Jefferson, not only as a statesman, but as the enlightened father of American education," the president said.

"It is entirely fitting that a statesman should have been also an educator. As education grows it becomes the partner of government."

The words of the chief executive were viewed as an additional endorsement of his famous Brain Trust. It was recalled that the president in his last academic speech at Yale championed the employment of professors as public officials.

The president said that President Jefferson profited by the intellectual leadership of George Wythe, whom he appraised as "one of the greatest men of his age."

The president, however, added: "Law in itself is not enough. Man must build himself more broadly. The purpose of education, shown by these various subjects of instruction indicated by the builder of William and Mary, was not to train specialists, but to educate men broadly. They were attempting to train not (Continued On Page Two)

Boys Under Arrest Must Pay Damage

Approximately a dozen boys were given hearings today by Mayor Mayne as the result of premature Halloweening, during which damage was committed. The boys who did the damage were ordered to pay for the damage.

Last night city police were kept on the jump up to midnight. The request for police service came from various sections.

No doubt parents will exercise a sharper vigil over the youngsters now that the mayor has determined that boys who disregard the rights of others and commit damage must pay for it.

FOUR PROJECTS ARE APPROVED

To Provide Employment For About 125 Men Next Week

Four authorizations for RWD projects were received today by George Mudehart, director of the RWD for Lawrence county, which will add about 125 men to the employed personnel. The projects include a school census for Union township, paving gutters in Union township, improving school grounds in Shenango township, and paving the Wayne avenue extension in Ellwood City.

The jobs will not start until Thursday, October 25, according to Mr. Mudehart but the personnel to be employed has been selected.

When these jobs get under way there will be a total of approximately 1500 men at work in the county, on RWD projects.

The Cunningham Park project will get under way Monday morning and the work on the project previously approved is moving along rapidly.

Wives of the secretaries organized themselves into an auxiliary group before the day's program closed.

Hauptmann In Jersey Jail Cell To Await Trial

Prisoner Loses His Fight Against Extradition From New York State

Prisoner Declares He Is Innocent In Kidnaping-Murder Charge

(International News Service)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Oct. 20.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was New Jersey's prisoner today—occupant of cell No. 1 in the Flemington jailhouse on the first stop of what Jersey officials boast will be a speedy but fair trip to the electric chair at Trenton.

Leaning backward in their plan to give the New York carpenter every courtesy in their power, New Jersey officials changed plans at the 11th hour and announced that Hauptmann would not be arraigned today on the charge for which he stands indicted—murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Because he is already indicted and lodged in jail here with the consent of the governor of New York state, Hauptmann will be held in his cell until next week for the final arraignment which—in New York state—would be the first step in the legal procedure.

Whisked Out of New York.
Pale and shaking, more discouraged than at any other time since his arrest, exactly a month ago, Hauptmann was whisked out of the Bronx county jail in New York City last night at the climax of a dramatic last ditch fight by his counsel to save him from prosecution in New Jersey.

OVER 4,000,000 ELIGIBLE TO CAST BALLOT

Registration In State Is Record

Republicans Show 1,250,000 More Than Democrats Despite Gain By Latter

NO TAX RECEIPT NEEDED THIS YEAR

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—An all-time record high total of 4,000,000 Pennsylvanians will be eligible to cast ballots at the November 6 election, virtually complete registration figures showed today.

Of these, 62.7 per cent of the electors listed themselves as Republicans and 33.3 per cent registered as Democrats. This was a gain of 6.1 per cent for the Democrats and a loss of 5.9 per cent for the G. O. P. in potential voting strength from 1933.

Huge Republican Lead
A tabulation of registrations from 66 of the state's 67 counties—all except Monroe—gave:

Republicans 2,629,297.
Democrats 1,390,382.

Total (including non-partisan and third party) 4,173,509.

In 1933, the totals for all 67 counties were:

Republican 2,742,327.
Democratic 1,087,890.

Total (including non-partisan and third party) 3,992,278.

No Tax Receipt Needed
The Monroe county figures, when they are filed with the elections bureau, will add approximately 5,000 Republicans and 11,000 Democrats to the 1934 aggregates.

Two reasons have been assigned to the heavy increase in the state's total enrollment, the unprecedented voter interest in the gubernatorial and senatorial contests and the fact that no tax receipt was necessary to qualify for a ballot this year for the first time.

This week some lovely potatoes were dug from her garden and there were two full bushel baskets sitting at her back door one evening this week when she went to bed, and in the morning when she opened the door, lo and behold the potatoes had disappeared, and as it is not the usual thing for potatoes to take wings, Mrs. Hittcock came to the conclusion some one must have taken them and she would really like to have them back.

Well, this is almost a "Believe it or not" but it is a fact that Mrs. Howard Magill, Garfield avenue, has a lilac bush in bloom, with small bunches of purple flowers plainly showing and the lilac odor evident.

Harry Kaufman, of R. F. D. No. 1, New Wilmington, brought twin apples to the office of The News, which were joined tightly together at the stem.

TWENTY PLANES IN BIG AIR DERBY

The gruelling route for a share of the $75,000 fortune to be awarded in prizes.

First Plane Leaves
The first plane, piloted by the famed British "Flying Mollisons," Captain Jim and Amy, left the ground promptly as scheduled at 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. E. S. T.). Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, American entry, were into the air next.

By 6:47 the twentieth plane was on its way, the start of the great race going off without a single mishap.

In addition to Col. Turner and Pangborn, flying a Boeing transport plane, the United States was represented by Jacqueline Cochran and Wesley Smith, in a Grumman monoplane, and John Wright and John Poland, piloting a Lambert monoplane.

With cheery farewells greetings of "Happy landings!" and "See you in Melbourne!" the pilots bade good-bye to each other showing little evidence of concern regarding the long flight ahead of them, which, over the shortest possible route between five compulsory landing places, is 11,323 miles.

Col. Turner Gets Away
Last minute motor trouble delayed Col. Turner and Pangborn in getting their plane out of the hangar, but mechanics went to work feverishly on it and finally got it to the starting line just five minutes before the start.

Col. Turner made a perfect start, catching up with the slow-starting Mollisons long before the latter were out of sight.

The most spectacular take-off of the entire race was that of Wesley Smith, piloting Miss Cochran's plane. Their craft sped across the turf and rose into the air suddenly with a terrific bump which nearly everyone present believed would cause the under-carriage to crumble. Pears were expressed the landing gear may collapse at their first landing.

The air ministry ascertained that the first of the competitors to cross the English channel left the English coast near Folkestone at 7:15, and several others followed in quick succession.

Some Forced Down
London, Oct. 20.—Contrary to the "favorable weather" reports given pilots in the England-to-Australia air derby as they left Mildenhall today, reports reached London a few hours later indicating extremely adverse conditions prevailed along parts of the route, particularly in northern France, where at least four entries were forced down.

Low clouds, rain, and bad visibility characterized this portion of the route, during the morning, H. L. Brook and Capt. T. Nevill Stack, both Britons, were forced down at Plessis Lucarches and Abbeville, respectively.

Soon afterward two more entries were forced down due to bad weather and engine trouble near Boulogne. They were F. Parer and G. E. Hewsworth, of New Guinea and J. D. Hewitt and C. E. Kay, of New Zealand.

In addition, reports from Athens disclosed strong winds and heavy snowfalls would greet flyers in northern Greece.

American Girl Out.
Bucharest, Oct. 20.—Jacqueline Cochran, American girl flyer and one of the leading entries in the London to Melbourne air derby, abandoned the flight on her arrival here this afternoon owing to a broken stabilizer.

With her two American companions, Wesley Smith and Roy Leonard, Miss Cochran landed her Grumman monoplane at the Bucharest military airport approximately eight hours after taking off from Mildenhall airport, England.

The landing here was made because of the broken stabilizer, and inspection of the plane apparently convinced Miss Cochran it would be impossible to continue the 13,000-mile flight.

CAMPAIGN CUTS DOWN ACCIDENTS

Only Two Accidents Of Minor Nature Reported Since Monday

Automobile accidents here have shown a decided decrease since the city police launched a campaign to enforce auto laws.

There were only half a dozen accidents reported last week and since Monday of this week only two accidents of a minor nature have occurred.

Before the campaign to enforce auto laws was launched here there were as many as a dozen accidents in one day.

The campaign has not been ended. Instead, police today intimated that it would be continued.

ROBINSON IS REPORTED IN MANY STATES

important weapons of the government in the drive against kidnappers.

In two major cases, the Urschel kidnapping in Oklahoma and the Dillingham case, a number of persons, both men and women, were arrested and convicted for harboring the principals in the case. They were sentenced to penitentiary terms.

Watch New York Line
Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 20.—State troopers were watching all roads in this section today for a car with Ohio license plates in which a man resembling Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, was reported seen.

Bert Hollenbeck, of Auburn, reported he had seen a man he was sure was Robinson, dressed in a mackinaw coat, driving toward Rochester. The man had stopped at a restaurant and Hollenbeck got a good look at him. He was accompanied by another man who was described as "rather short."

Search In California
Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—Peace officers throughout Southern California today were guarding all highways in an effort to capture Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., crackpot kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Kentucky socialite, reported by department of justice agents to be headed for the Pacific coast.

Joseph Dunn, chief department of justice agent for this district, said he had been advised Robinson was fleeing westward, possibly in an attempt to board a vessel bound for the orient, or to cross the international border into Mexico at the Juana.

"We have learned," Dunn said, "that Robinson has eluded a cordon thrown around the middle west. There are definite indications he is headed toward California, with the bulk of the $50,000 paid as Mrs. Stoll's ransom in his possession."

"We have good reason to believe that Robinson will try to board a vessel at Los Angeles harbor or San Francisco, under an assumed name, of course, and probably disguised."

Chicago Reports
Chicago, Oct. 20.—Federal authorities and police renewed the hunt today for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., accused abductor of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, with the report he had patronized a Rogers Park filling station.

John McDonough, 20, made the "identification" from a newspaper photograph. McDonough said the man drove up with a small sedan and bought five gallons of gasoline from him and drove off.

Payment was made with a $5 bill bearing serial numbers identical to one of the bills among the $50,000 ransom paid for Mrs. Stoll's release.

Other identifying numbers are necessary, however, before authorities can establish the bill as part of the ransom money.

Investigate Kane Report
Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—J. J. Waters, chief of the department of justice office here, announced today that one of his men has gone to Kane, Pa., to question James Eck, who claims he was given an automobile ride by the hunted kidnaper, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., yesterday.

Waters declined to disclose the agent's name, but said Eck, 22-year-old Monaca, Pa., hitch-hiker would be questioned about his riding with the man he believed to be Robinson.

Since the reported appearance of Robinson, sought as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville, all highways in the vicinity of Kane have been under guard by state police.

Reported In Canada
Fort Erie, Ont., Oct. 20.—A Fort Erie hotel man said today he had identified a visitor to his hotel last night as Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., wanted for the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The hotel executive said the man he believed to have been Robinson appeared intensely nervous, and was accompanied by two men, one of whom claimed he had identified Robinson through photographs.

"Keeps On Goin' Places"
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20.—An old man selling newspapers today stood in the middle of Fourth street—Louisville's Broadway—and hawked:

"Robinson keeps on goin' places—they don't seem able to get him."

And Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the Nashville boy, with ice in his heart and a crack in his brain, continued to play Will-O-The-Wisp as a special grand jury met to indict him for the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll. Mrs. Stoll will not be called as a witness.

The ace sleuths of the department of justice pluggled doggedly along the trail but there were many cross-roads to confuse them.

Melvin Purvis, the Chicago federal agent who "got" Dillingham, frankly admitted the investigators were stymied.

"I have no more idea of the whereabouts of Robinson than you have," he said. "But we'll get him, sooner or later."

The fugitive's eccentricities, his ego, his talkativeness, were counted on to run him up in time.

It was assumed he was shrewd enough to change his "flashy" mode of dress for a more quiet attire.

Reports From Many Points
Reports came in from a half-dozen states and a score of cities of the purported spotting of the 27-year-old kidnaper.

They came from as far away as Los Angeles and as near home as Louisville and Nashville, Tenn.

Some predicted Robinson was on his way to the latter city to turn himself over to his father, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., who had retrieved him from serious trouble many times before.

His father, as well as his wife, Mrs. Frances Robinson, are alleged to be involved in the kidnapping and face indictments today with the missing principal.

Mrs. Robinson was in the county jail here under $50,000 bond while the elder Robinson was free in Nashville after providing a $25,000 bond.

Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan were checked by agents following reports the fugitive had been sighted in these states.

While the search was widened in the east, Federal Agent Purvis, directing the hunt, maintained his temporary headquarters at Cincinnati.

On Lookout At Buffalo
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 20.—State troopers, police of western New York cities and sheriffs' deputies were keeping a sharp lookout today for the automobile in which Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, was reported fleeing here from Kane, Pa. A farmer at Kane told authorities he had been given a short ride by a man answering the description of Robinson.

Kane authorities reported the suspected fugitive apparently was headed either for Buffalo and the Canadian border or route six to Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and New York.

While Buffalo police guarded all entrances to the city and sheriffs' deputies patrolled the rural areas, all available state troopers stopped scores of cars on main highways. Messages broadcast over the New York state police teletype hookup gave no description of the speeding machine except that it was a new Ford V 8 sedan.

However, James Eck, the hitch-hiker picked up by the man yesterday, said the car was equipped with two rear vision mirrors. A revolver hung over one mirror and a black-jack dangled from the other, he said.

Robinson is reported to be carrying most of the $50,000 ransom paid by Mrs. Stoll's husband for her release.

Controversy On History Teaching Remains Up In Air

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—Efforts to settle differences between James J. Stewart, Indiana county high school teacher and school superintendent James P. Chapman, remained futile today.

Stewart, whose permanent certificate to teach in the Plumville high school has been held up by the superintendent, insists he will not "teach history the way Chapman wants it to be taught."

This declaration followed a conference with Stewart's attorney in which the principals failed to reach an agreement.

Tribute To Colleagues
President Roosevelt paid special tribute to colleagues specializing in science and in scholarship.

"Our great universities are properly providing adequate facilities for development of specialists in science and in scholarship," he said.

The rousing declaration of the president was taken as a further indication of his support of the Brain Trust.

The president launched a special plea for "broad, liberal and non-specialized education."

He said: "Every form of co-operative human endeavor cries out for men and women who, in their thinking processes, will know something of the broader aspects of any given problem. Government is greatly using men and women of this type—people who have the non-specialized point of view and who at the same time have a general and extra-ordinarily comprehensive knowledge, not of the details, but of the progress and the purposes which underlie the work of the specialists themselves."

Receives Degree
Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 20.—Cheered by thousands, President Roosevelt received an honorary doctor of law degree from the college of William and Mary here today.

The chief executive also aided in the inauguration of John Stewart Bryan as the nineteenth president of this ancient institution of learning.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson greeted the president as he left his special train. The chief executive spoke briefly at dedicatory ceremonies at the Burke of Gloucester street which has been restored to its colonial status.

The president was keenly interested in the beautiful architecture.

Mr. Henry was a member of all bodies of the F. & A. M., of the Shrine of Cleveland, O., the B. P. O. E. of Barberton and the Federated Church of Barberton.

Emma Frances Chandler.
Miss Emma Frances Chandler, 83, died at her home in Slippery Rock township, Butler county, Friday evening about 4 o'clock. Miss Chandler fell recently and fractured one hip, which is believed to have hastened her death.

She was born in Plaingrove township, December 10, 1851, and was the daughter of Samuel P. and Mary Deniston Chandler, pioneer residents of that section. She is survived by one sister, Sadie Chandler, at home. She was a member of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church. Funeral services Monday at 2 p. m. from her late home. Services will be conducted by Rev. H. C. McClure, pastor of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church, interment in Slippery Rock cemetery.

Central Bank Plan Opposed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Indicating the opposition of the administration to establishment of any central bank, Treasury experts today had completed advance plans to offset any move in the next Congress to create a central monetary authority.

If any serious movement develops in Congress for establishment of a central bank, the administration will introduce legislation designed to strengthen the federal reserve system on the two points on which its ability to maintain unified control is considered weak.

With two exceptions the federal reserve board can now do practically everything that a central bank would be able to do.

The two exceptions are its inability to determine policy concerning an open market operation and its lack of authority to name the governors of the reserve banks.

OVER 4,000,000 ELIGIBLE TO CAST BALLOT

Registration In State Is Record

Republicans Show 1,250,000 More Than Democrats Despite Gain By Latter

NO TAX RECEIPT NEEDED THIS YEAR

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—An all-time record high total of 4,200,000 Pennsylvanians will be eligible to cast ballots at the November 6 election, virtually complete registration figures showed today.
Of these, 62.7 per cent of the electors listed themselves as Republicans and 33.3 per cent registered as Democrats. This was a gain of 6.1 per cent for the Democrats and a loss of 5.0 per cent for the G. O. P. in potential voting strength from 1932.

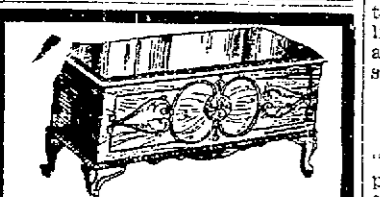

Huge Republican Lead
A tabulation of registrations from 66 of the state's 67 counties—all except Monroe—gave:
Republicans 2,620,207.
Democrats 1,390,382.
Total (including non-partisan and third party) 4,010,589.
In 1932, the totals for all 67 counties were:
Republican 2,742,327.
Democratic 1,087,890.
Total (including non-partisan and third party) 3,830,217.

No Tax Receipt Needed
The Monroe county figures, when they are filed with the elections bureau, will add approximately 6,000 Republicans and 11,000 Democrats to the 1934 aggregates.
Two reasons have been assigned to the heavy increase in the state's total enrollment, the unprecedented voter interest in the gubernatorial and senatorial contests and the fact that no tax receipt was necessary to qualify for a ballot this year for the first time.

PA NEW OBSERVES

this week some lovely potatoes were dug from her garden and there were two full bushel baskets sitting at her back door one evening this week when she went to bed, and in the morning when she opened the door, lo and behold the potatoes had disappeared, and as it is not the usual thing for potatoes to take wings, Mrs. Hitchcock came to the conclusion some one must have taken them and she would really like to have them back.

Well, this is almost a "Believe it or not" but it is a fact that Mrs. Howard Magill, Garfield avenue, has a lilac bush in bloom, with small bunches of purple flowers, plainly showing and the lilac odor evident.

Harry Kaufman, of R. F. D. No. 1, New Wilmington, brought an apples to the office of The News, which were joined tightly together at the stem.

TWENTY PLANES IN BIG AIR DERBY

the grueling route for a share of the $75,000 fortune to be awarded in prizes.

First Plane Leaves

The first plane, piloted by the famed British flying molasses, Captain Jim and Amy, left the ground promptly as scheduled at 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. E. S. T.). Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, American entry, were into the air next. By 6:47 the twentieth plane was on its way, the start of the great race going off without a single mishap.

In addition to Col. Turner and Pangborn, flying a Boeing transport plane, the United States was represented by Jacqueline Cochran and Wesley Smith, in a Grumman monoplane, and John Wright and John Polando, piloting a Lambert monoplane.

With cheery farewell greetings of "Happy landings!" and "See you in Melbourne!" the pilots bade good-bye to each other showing little evidence of concern regarding the long flight ahead of them, which, over the shortest possible route between five compulsory landing places, is 11,323 miles.

Col. Turner Gets Away

Last minute motor trouble delayed Col. Turner and Pangborn in getting their plane out of the hangar, but mechanics went to work feverishly on it and finally got it to the starting line just five minutes before the start.

Col. Turner made a perfect start, catching up with the slow-starting molasses long before the latter were out of sight.
The most spectacular take-off of the entire race was that of Wesley Smith, piloting Miss Cochran's plane. Their craft sped across the turf and rose into the air suddenly with a terrific bump which nearly everyone present believed would cause the under-carriage to crumple. Fears were expressed the landing gear may collapse at their first landing.

The air ministry ascertained that the first of the competitors to cross the English channel left the English coast near Folkestone at 7:15, and several others followed in quick succession.

Some Forced Down

London, Oct. 20.—Contrary to the "favorable weather" reports given pilots in the England-to-Australia air derby as they left Mildenhall today, reports reached London a few hours later indicating extremely adverse conditions prevailed along parts of the route, particularly in northern France, where at least four entries were forced down.
Low clouds, rain, and bad visibility characterized this portion of the route during the morning. H. L. Brook and Capt. T. Nevill Stack, both Britons, were forced down at Fleiss Lucarhes and Abbeville, respectively.

Soon afterward two more entries were forced down due to bad weather and engine trouble near Boulogne. They were R. Parer and G. E. Hewsworth, of New Guinea and J. D. Hewitt and C. E. Kay, of New Zealand.
In addition, reports from Athens disclosed strong winds and heavy snowfalls would greet flyers in northern Greece.

American Girl Out

Bucharest, Oct. 20.—Jacqueline Cochran, American girl flyer and one of the leading entries in the London to Melbourne air derby, abandoned the flight on her arrival here this afternoon owing to a broken stabilizer.

With her two American companions, Wesley Smith and Roy Leonard, Miss Cochran landed her Grumman monoplane at the Bucharest military airport approximately eight hours after taking off from Mildenhall airport, England.

The landing here was made because of the broken stabilizer, and inspection of the plane apparently convinced Miss Cochran it would be impossible to continue the 13,000-mile flight.

CAMPAIGN CUTS DOWN ACCIDENTS

Only Two Accidents Of Minor Nature Reported Since Monday

Automobile accidents here have shown a decided decrease since the city police launched a campaign to enforce auto laws.

There were only half a dozen accidents reported last week and since Monday of this week only two accidents of a minor nature have occurred.

Before the campaign to enforce auto laws was launched here there were as many as a dozen accidents in one day.

The campaign has not been ended. Instead, police today intimated that it would be continued.

important weapons of the government in the drive against kidnappers.

Two major cases, the Urschel kidnapping in Oklahoma and the Dillinger case, number of persons, both men and women, were arrested and convicted for harboring the principals in the case. They were sentenced to penitentiary terms.

Watch New York Line
Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 20.—State troopers were watching all roads in this section today for a car with Ohio license plates in which a man resembling Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, was reported seen.

Bert Hollenbeck, of Auburn, reported he had seen a man who was sure was Robinson, dressed in a mackinaw coat, driving toward Rochester. The man had stopped at a restaurant and Hollenbeck got a good look at him. He was accompanied by another man who was described as "rather short."

Search In California

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—Peace officers throughout Southern California today were guarding all highways in an effort to capture Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., crackpot kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Kentucky socialite, reported by department of justice agents to be headed for the Pacific coast.

Joseph Dunn, chief department of justice agent for this district, said he had been advised Robinson was fleeing westward, possibly in an attempt to board a vessel bound for the orient, or to cross the international border into Mexico at Tijuana.

"We have learned," Dunn said, "that Robinson has eluded a cordon thrown around the middle west. There are definite indications he is headed toward California, with the bulk of the $50,000 paid as Mrs. Stoll's ransom in his possession."

"We have good reason to believe that Robinson will try to board a vessel at Los Angeles harbor or San Francisco, under an assumed name, of course, and probably disguised."

Chicago Reports

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Federal authorities and police renewed the hunt today for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., accused kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, with the report he had patronized a Rogers Park filling station.

John McDonough, 20, made the identification from a newspaper photograph of the hunted kidnaper and the man drove up with a small sedan and bought five gallons of gasoline from him and drove off.

Payment was made with a $5 bill bearing serial numbers identical to one of the bills among the $50,000 ransom paid for Mrs. Stoll's release.

Other identifying numbers are necessary, however, before authorities can establish the bill as part of the ransom money.

Investigate Kane Report

Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—J. J. Waters, chief of the department of justice office here, announced today that one of his men has gone to Kane, Pa., to question James Eck, who claims he was given an automobile ride by the hunted kidnaper, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., yesterday.

Waters declined to disclose the agent's name but said Eck, 25-year-old Marienville, Pa., hitch-hiker would be questioned about his riding with the man he believed to be Robinson.

Since the reported appearance of Robinson as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville, all highways in the vicinity of Kane have been under guard by state police.

Reported In Canada

Fort Erie, Ont., Oct. 20.—A Fort Erie hotel man said today he had identified a visitor to his hotel last night as Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., wanted for the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The hotel executive said the man he believed to have been Robinson appeared intensely nervous, and was accompanied by two male companions in a damaged automobile. The informant claimed he had identified Robinson through photographs.

"Keeps On Goin' Places"

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20.—An old man selling newspapers today stood in the middle of Fourth street—Louisville's Broadway—and hawked: "Robinson keeps on goin' places—they don't seem able to get him."

And Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the Nashville boy, with ice in his heart, took a quick look in his brain, then to play Will-O-The-Wisp as a special grand jury met to indict him for the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll. Mrs. Stoll will not be called as a witness.

The sleuths of the department of justice plugged doggedly along the trail but there were many cross-roads to confuse them.

Movin Purvis, the Chicago federal agent who "got" Dillinger, frankly admitted the investigators were stymied.

"I have no more idea of the whereabouts of Robinson than you have," he said. "But we'll get him, sooner or later."

The fugitive's eccentricities, his ego, his talkativeness, were counted on to run him up in time.

It was assumed he was shrewd enough to change his "flashy" mode of dress for a more quiet attire.

Reports From Many Points

Reports came in from a half-dozen states and a score of cities of the purported spotting of the 27-year-old kidnaper.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—An all-time record high total of 4,000,000 Pennsylvanians will be eligible to cast ballots at the November 6 election, virtually complete registration figures showed today.

Of these, 62.7 per cent of the electors listed themselves as Republicans and 33.3 per cent registered as Democrats. This was a gain of 8.1 per cent for the Democrats and a loss of 5.9 per cent for the G. O. P. in potential voting strength from 1933.

Huge Republican Lead

A tabulation of registrations from 66 of the state's 67 counties—all except Monroe—gave:

Republicans 2,520,267.
Democrats 1,250,387.

Total (including non-partisan and third party) 4,173,509.

In 1933, the totals for all 67 counties were:

Republican 2,742,327.
Democratic 1,087,890.

Total (including non-partisan and third party) 3,992,278.

No Tax Receipt Needed

The Monroe county figures, when they are filed with the elections bureau, will add approximately 5,000 Republicans and 11,000 Democrats to the 1934 aggregates.

Two reasons have been assigned to the heavy increase in the state's total enrollment, the unprecedented voter interest in the gubernatorial and senatorial contests and the fact that no tax receipt was necessary to qualify for a ballot this year for the first time.

Some Forced Down
London, Oct. 20.—Contrary to the "favorable weather" reports given pilots in the England-to-Australia air derby as they left Mildenhall today, reports reached London a few hours later indicating extremely low clouds and rain, particularly in northern France, where at least four entries were forced down.

Low clouds, rain, and bad visibility characterized this portion of the route during the morning. H. L. Brook and Capt. T. Nevill Stack, both Britons, were forced down at Bessie Luchurches and Abberville, respectively.

Soon afterward two more entries were forced down due to bad weather and engine trouble near Boulogne. They were R. Pater and G. E. Hewsworth, of New Guinea and J. D. Hewitt and C. E. Kay, of New Zealand.

In addition, reports from Athens disclosed strong winds and heavy snowfalls would greet flyers in northern Greece.

American Girl Out.
Bucharest, Oct. 20.—Jacqueline Cochran, American girl flier and one of the leading entries in the London to Melbourne air derby, abandoned the flight on her arrival here this afternoon owing to a broken stabilizer.

With her two American companions, Wesley Smith and Roy Leonard, Miss Cochran landed her Granville monoplane at the Bucharest military airport approximately eight hours after taking off from Mildenhall airport, England.

The landing here was made because of the broken stabilizer, and inspection of the plane apparently convinced Miss Cochran it would be impossible to continue the 13,000-mile flight.

Well, this is almost a "Believe it or not" but it is a fact that Mrs. Howard Magill, Garfield avenue, has a lilac bush in bloom, with small bunches of purple flowers plainly showing and the lilac odor evident.

Harry Kaufman, of R. F. D. No. 1, New Wilmington, brought twin apples to the office of The News, which were joined tightly together at the stem.

This week some lovely potatoes were dug from her garden and there were two full bushel baskets sitting at her back door one evening this week when she went to bed, and in the morning when she opened the door, lo and behold the potatoes had disappeared, and as it is not the usual thing for potatoes to take wings, Mrs. Hitchcock came to the conclusion some one must have taken them and she would really like to have them back.

TWENTY PLANES IN BIG AIR DERBY

The gruelling route for a share of the $75,000 fortune to be awarded in prizes.

First Plane Leaves

The first plane, piloted by the famed British "flying mollusks," Captain Jim and Amy, left this ground promptly as scheduled at 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. E. S. T.). Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, American entry, were into the air next.

By 6:47 the twentieth plane was on its way, the start of the great race going off without a single mishap.

In addition to Col. Turner and Pangborn, flying a Boeing transport plane, the United States was represented by Jacqueline Cochran and Wesley Smith, in a Granville monoplane, and John Wright and John Polando, piloting a Lambourn monoplane.

With cheery farewell greetings of "Happy landings" and "See you in Melbourne!" the pilots bade good-bye to each other showing little evidence of concern regarding the long flight ahead of them, which, over the shortest possible route between five compulsory landing places, is 11,323 miles.

Col. Turner Gets Away
Last minute motor trouble delayed Col. Turner and Pangborn in getting their plane out of the hangar, but mechanics went to work feverishly on it and finally got it to the starting line just five minutes before the start.

Col. Turner made a perfect start, catching up with the slow-starting Mollusks long before the latter were out of sight.

The most spectacular take-off of the entire race was that of Wesley Smith, piloting Miss Cochran's plane. Their craft sped across the turf and rose into the air suddenly with a terrific bump which nearly everyone present believed would cause the under-carriage to crumble. Fears were expressed the landing gear may collapse at their first landing.

The air ministry ascertained that the first of the competitors to cross the English channel left the English coast near Folkestone at 7:15 and several others followed in quick succession.

MRS. BEADEL ATTENDS CLUB ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Edward W. Beadel, of Rhodes Place, was among the fifty guests at the thirty fifth anniversary celebration of the New Century Club of Youngstown, which yesterday, turned time backward and reminiscenced at a beautiful tea in the home of Mrs. William O. Brown, in Boardman, members coming from far and near to renew former friendships.

The club which has a membership of prominent Youngstown women, many of whom now reside outside of town, was organized thirty five years ago, on a Friday, at the home of Miss Belle Euwer, the charter members of which Mrs. Beadel is one, arriving in handsome horse drawn carriages.

Yesterday, the majority came in fashionable high powered automobiles, with the exception of Mrs. Henry A. Butler and Mrs. George S. Bishop, who held to tradition and arrived in state, in a horse-drawn buggy, costumed as they were in 1899. They "took the show." The proud horse, with its head high, stared with hauteur at the automobiles, distracting attention from present day vehicles.

Mrs. Butler was the first president, a pioneer club woman, who is still devoted to her club leadership. Featuring the afternoon's entertainment, Friday, was a display of old photographs which recalled days of pompadours and bustles, wasps-waists, and shoes with unbelievably high heels. Miss Belle Euwer, the first hostess, now an honorary member, was present, and warmly greeted.

Noteworthy of mention, in connection with the beautiful decorations in the Brown home for the anniversary gathering, was the large birthday cake, inscribed with N. C. C.—1899-1934 and in a prominent place, was an old fashioned bowl of rosycheeked apples, similar to that at the first meeting, which was the only refreshment provided.

The club history, together with letters from absentees, made up a delightful program and served to make the occasion an outstanding one in the memories of the women present.

Willing Workers.
Members of the Willing Workers class of the Croton M. E. church met in the home of Mrs. Ed Mitchell on Neshannock avenue Thursday evening.

Mrs. S. B. Patterson had charge of the business meeting with Mrs. Annie Williams and Mrs. C. H. Hauger conducting the devotionals. After short business session, a social period was enjoyed, with the members making. The prizes for the best costume was awarded to Mrs. W. E. Caldwell.

The home was attractively decorated in the season's colors. Lunch was served by Mrs. Mitchell, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Albert Mitchell and Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell. Special guests were Eddie Crabbe and Miss Ruth Hogue.

M. E. N. Club
Miss Ruth Miller will entertain the M. E. N. club October 29 at her home on Junior High street.

At the meeting, this week, at the home of Miss Margaret Shelley, on Spruce street, sewing was the diversion and refreshments were served late in the evening.

MRS. JOHN MOORE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

"When Irish Eyes Were Smiling" might well express the pleased expression on the face of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann McBurney Moore, at her home on the Harlanburg road Friday when her four sons and two daughters greeted her with "Top O' the Mornin' to You, Mother," on her 93rd birthday.

Mrs. Moore has smiling blue eyes, a keen intellect and has kept the traditional Irish sense of humor through the long years. Her days for hard work on the farm are over, but nevertheless she does not spend an idle minute, and as she talked to a News reporter on her birthday, she sat with a shirt of her son's over her knee, neatly putting a patch where it was needed with the smallest and neatest of stitches. She also exhibited some embroidery work that had just been completed, and it was wonderful to behold the perfect stitches of the designs. Mrs. Moore took great pride in exhibiting a piece of work that came from Ireland, and she said the girls "back home" had spent all their leisure in embroidering linens for their hope chests.

Mrs. Moore was born in County Down, Ireland, October 19, 1841, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McBurney and was the oldest of a family of seven children. She is now the only one living. Her father passed away a few years ago at the age of 96, but her mother died at 36 and Mrs. Moore mothered the family until they were grown.

On May 1, 1866, as the bride of John Moore, she arrived from Ireland in New Castle and went to the farm home on the New Castle road, which has been her home ever since. When she arrived in New Castle, Mrs. Robt. McBurney Sr. mother of Robert McBurney, Walnut street, cooked the first dinner she ate in this city. Mrs. Moore reminisced on days of her girlhood "back home," when she was a playmate of Mrs. Moore, also of Mrs. L. Magill, Mont Magill's mother, Mrs. John Mc Bride, mother of Mrs. Charles Noland, and also the Perry brothers, fathers of Dr. S. W. Perry, East North street, and of Fanny Perry. She told of the frolics on the Irish downs while they were all children together.

Mrs. Moore's family consists of her sons and daughters: John B. Moore, of East Brook; S. G. Moore, of Park avenue; W. C. Moore of Mulberry street; W. C. Moore at home, Misses Mary Amelia and Elizabeth Ann, also at home. She also has 14 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

She takes great joy in the visits of her grand children and great grandchildren and keeps herself well informed on the topics of the day, although her grandchildren like to hear the old stories and Irish rhymes of the days when "grandma" was young.

MRS. JOHN MOORE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

MUMS AND SPORT

Flowers have their place in sport as well as social events, business or funerals. When you take the girl friend to the football game, add to her happiness by sending her some mums to wear to the game. Mums are beautiful just now. Big and feathery and exotically colored. And, of course, we have only the best blooms in the market.

SHIFT IN PUBLIC SENTIMENT

ANOTHER poll conducted by the Literary Digest reveals a decided change of public sentiment towards New Deal policies.

Back in March and April ballots were distributed among the states. The question asked was whether those voting approved of the Roosevelt administration's acts and policies "on the whole." One state alone—Delaware—disapproved by a percentage of 66.67 to 33.33. The average of all the states was 69.03 in favor and 30.97 against.

In August and September 65,000 ballots were sent to the same persons who answered the earlier poll. This time the average affirmative percentage has dropped to 50.97, showing a decrease of 18.06. Seventeen states are now recorded as opposed to the administration's policies—Arizona, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming. Five commonwealths have increased their faith in New Deal methods—Delaware, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina and Utah. Curiously enough Delaware now shows an even division of opinion.

Some of these figures are enlightening. Pennsylvania, for instance, previously voting yes 69.37 per cent goes to 52.53 per cent no, thus adding 21.90 per cent to its disapproval column. Rhode Island adds 30.11, Connecticut 15.47, New York 22.23, New Jersey 20.53.

It may be argued that 65,000 ballots are not a sufficient large number to afford an accurate calculation. Nevertheless the Digest polls do have a habit of justifying themselves, and it must be apparent to intelligent observers that various New Deal methods are being subjected to increasing criticism.

WHAT MIGHT BE

Americans grumble so much about street and sidewalk congestion that it is a relief to be reminded occasionally of the horrible fates we have escaped. More than a crumb of comfort is furnished by visioning the conditions that would exist were some of the modern time-saving and congestion-eliminating devices taken away.

Picture an American city without telephones. There would be millions of messages to deliver somehow. If they were carried by hand, the messenger boys would doubtless be piled in business streets like snowdrifts, roof high. And think what would happen if all the senders turned out to see why their messages had not reached their destination.

If there is a moment's delay in making a telephone connection, the subscriber is loud in protest against inefficient service. He might not be so quick to complain if he realized that without the telephone he might have to make the connection on foot.

Imagine, if you can, the confusion and annoyance that would be occasioned by trying to take care of modern traffic on the narrow earth roads and unpaved city streets which the pioneer motorist used in the absence of anything better.

All in all the nation, even in the most congested centers of population, makes fairly good progress, and communication and transportation systems operate with surprising expedition under all the circumstances.

THE PROSPEROUS FORTIES

A recent compilation reveals that fact that the average man is at the peak of his prosperity at or around the age of 40. Pick out all the prosperous men you know of in the public eye and you will realize the truth of this fact.

After a man has passed forty years of age, the report shows, the time and the likelihood of his amassing a fortune or even a livelihood, decreases rapidly.

A survey of the lives of "100 average men" showed that at 45 more than half of them were self-supporting or better. Only 15 were dependent. At 55 the number of dependents had doubled and at 65 it was still increasing.

This may be taken either as a threat or a warning. It may be the scourge of dependency or of keen incentive, accordingly as it is viewed with courage or taken as an ultimatum proclaiming the uselessness of effort.

For the average man the solution lies in the slow accumulation and careful investment of savings. The same statistics note that the earlier savings is begun, the greater the ratio of accumulation and the longer prosperity will endure. They are facts for the generation now coming into middle life to consider, and to be taught to the younger generation for its own happiness and security.

LONDON LEADS

Again London has moved to make secure her title as the largest city in the world. By annexing two more large and remote suburban communities she has extended her square mileage, her circumference and her population.

There are now 1,200 square miles of Greater London and there are 10,800,000 persons living within the city and its 26 boroughs. New York would have to annex Jersey City and Newark to compare with her big sister in England.

Strangely, London isn't boasting and New York isn't jealous. Big cities have outgrown their megalomania, a disease which afflicts up and coming communities which are smaller than their boosters like to think. When urbanites have to spend two hours a day going to and from work in overcrowded subways, ferries and streets they crave anything but bigness for their home city.

Big cities are becoming bigger and bigger and hastening the day when they must disintegrate or choke to death. There may come a time when mankind will desert the big cities to seek a less crowded and quieter place in which to work and live.

The world grows better in some ways. The young man who calls to sit in the porch swing no longer brings a mandolin.

King Baseball has abdicated in favor of football, the corn is in the shock and winter is coming on apace. So what? Do your Christmas shopping early!

We are to have another book soon. General Johnson is said to be writing the story of his life for early publication. Well, as a recovery administrator maybe the general will prove to be a good writer.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"I'M INNOCENT!" I say to you, "I'm innocent!" and I look you straight in the eyes. Guilty people aren't supposed to be able to "look" you straight in the eyes. They are supposed to look at you with eyes that water and shift and admit the guilt the tongue denies. But I look right at you and I say, "I'm innocent. I didn't do it. Somebody else did it. I was some-where else at the time. I have a perfect alibi, and, of course, if you don't believe me, then you're not the friend I thought you were. You MUST believe I'm innocent!"

But of course I'm not really innocent. I'm guilty. I'm as guilty as can be. I did it, and I know that I did it. Nobody else did it but me. I don't know why I did it, but I did. . . . DO YOU always know just why you do things? Have you always perfect control of yourself, of your actions? Are YOU always strong, always wise, always certain of what you are doing? Tell me that before you judge me too harshly, before you condemn me.

But why, if I am guilty, do I shout so loudly, with such a show of injured feelings, "I'M INNOCENT"? Why don't I confess my guilt and get it over.

But I fear you will not understand. You understand innocence, but it is possible you may not understand guilt. You will help the innocent, but perhaps you will not help the guilty. I am not sure you will understand how a man can make a mistake, how he can know he is doing the wrong thing, and still do that thing, how he can go straight ahead on a road that leads he knows not where.

You believe in me when you know I am innocent. Could you believe in me, still, and give me your hand, even though I told you I was guilty? I would need more help than when I am guilty. It is so easy to help the innocent. They have the strength of their own guiltlessness. Anybody can help THEM. But who has help for the guilty who do not know where or why they took the turning from innocence to guilt?

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR LADY LUCK?

So you like to woo Lady Luck, eh? You desire a divine damsel, as you have found many times when you have thought her captured.

Perhaps you have gambled in different ways for many years. Followed out many a system said to be a "sure fire" winner. Frequently you have persuaded friends to join you in your plan for beating the other fellow's game.

You have made some winnings, and you were elated, but how quickly they were spent. Then at last, you were positive of a sure way to "make a nice little piece of change."

You got together all the money you could swing and plunged. Bing! Away went the whole amount, but it did not deter you from this procedure again and again, with same result, "broke."

By this time you should know that you can't beat a game affording a fat living to a lot of men on the inside.

They are having an easy time because they are supported by a lot of easy marks and suckers just like you.

Wrench yourself loose from such practices. Quit feeding the other fellow and starving yourself.

AN EMPLOYER GIVES UP

And I came to a place and the streets were still
And the grass grew high at a factory door
Where workmen once gathered,
But now no more.

"What happened," I asked, "such a dream to kill?"
An old man answered: "Time was
The sound of hammer and lathe in here.
We worked at the benches year by year
And slowly but surely the village grew.

"But we were the toilers who worked for hire.
'Ours were the bodies that had to bear
Day after day in that factory there
The weights of the loads and the heat of fire.

"One day there appeared at the factory gate
A stranger who poisoned our minds with distrust.
He called our employer unfair and unjust
And he taught us to quarrel and taught us to hate.

"We fought with him, hectoring him, asked more and more;
Called him names until stand it no longer he could.
'Since to hire men is evil,' he said, 'I'll be good!'
And he closed up forever that factory door."

I reckon if the gent before the "mike" could glance in at the bridge parties and see how little attention the chattering players around the tables were paying to the racket coming in over the radio, he'd hunt up that old poem, "Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?" and retire to a quiet corner and read it to himself.

A MONUMENT TO A BIRD
Mormon crickets, recently causing great damage to crops in some sections of the west, are so-called because of their depredations on the crops of the pioneer Mormon settlers. In 1848, the year after the Mormon migration to the Great Salt Lake region, many acres of wheat were planted and the success of the settlement depended upon a bountiful harvest. During the month of May great swarms of the crickets appeared and the young wheat seemed doomed. But, says the story, before much damage was done large flocks of seagulls appeared and destroyed the insects. This is why a monument to the gull stands in Temple Square in Salt Lake City today. It was the work of Mahroni Young, grandson of the Mormon leader, Brigham Young, and was unveiled in 1913.

"ROCK OF AGES" AND THE BIBLE

The words of the well-known hymn "Rock of Ages" can be coupled with quotations or paraphrases from the Bible in a very interesting way. Of course the song is not made up of literal quotations from the Scriptures, but the lines refer to passages which are strikingly similar.

Rock of ages, cleft for me,

Wall Street Optimistic Sees Industrial Peace

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th Street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Wall Street is becoming optimistic. For one thing, there are many inquiries from would-be investors. For another thing, Wall Street sees industrial disputes fading out. It now is conceded that the government's machinery will bring about a meeting point of minds. It does not matter that industries will have to surrender some of their prerogatives to labor.

The final result is what counts—and the final result, as visioned now, will be a gradual upward trend, if there is industrial peace.

PERMANENT

This writer has made a study of numerous articles and books and views holding that the Roosevelt "patching of the capitalistic roof" will not save the structure.

But what if it does? What if the patching becomes, in spite of Roosevelt, an evolutionary process by which the structure is entirely remade without violence?

That view is held in many conservative quarters with alarm in most.

The trend clearly is in the direction of industrial peace.

DRAW BACK

The chief drawback to recovery, either on a capitalistic or a socialistic or a communistic scale is trade barriers.

Quietly, Secretary of State Cordell Hull is trying to perfect agreements that will level trade barriers to the extent of permitting trade to flow among all nations.

Only by such a freer flow of trade can there be hope of lasting business recovery for any nation or any people.

The tie that binds the peoples of the world today is so closely and sensitively wound in and among all peoples none can escape its vibrations—which have been all to the bad since the World War.

Secretary Hull comments: "Our primary purpose is to increase, not merely to divert or to diminish, the sum total of world trade."

Some countries, prior to entering into negotiations for reciprocity treaties, have been boosting tariffs, so that their net concessions will not be very much. Secretary Hull denounces that as getting nowhere.

But countries will have to get somewhere on resuming a normal flow of trade, or there will be revolutions.

A CORRESPONDENT'S VIEW
The majority of persons writing letters to this column express the view that the United States is veering to the "left."

Clarence McConnell of New Wilmington, Pa., concentrates the opinion of many when he writes:

"For several months back I have been very much interested in your articles. You seem to be very broadminded and unprejudiced. And what you experience in mingling with the people is almost exactly what I have experienced."

"I have traveled in 37 states as a farm laborer. . . .

"I was a life-long Republican until the spring of 1932. . . .

"I voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt and I still support most of his ideas for I feel he is for all the people, where Hoover was for the privileged few. I fully realize that President Roosevelt has a difficult task, but I would be much stronger for him if he would swing more to the left."

My ancestors came to this country before the Revolutionary war, therefore I cannot be accused of being a foreigner. I now am a genuine radical—of American birth. Could I be anything less after traveling from coast to coast and from Canadian border to Mexican border and observing things as they are?

"I am surprised at the number of Americans who share my ideas. God placed the fertility in the soil, minerals, gas and oil into the bowels of the earth, and everything is given to all of us for our daily needs. A few animals in human form are trying to control all these things, which are placed here for all. The day of reckoning has come—therefore I feel happy to be among those who will share in righting this great injustice."

COSMO HALLOWE'EN DANCE AT FIELD CLUB

The entertainment committee of the Cosmo club, in conjunction with the House Committee, held a special meeting at the club house, North Mercer street, on Thursday evening to make arrangements for their Halloween frolic which is to be held at the New Castle Field Club on the eve of October 31.

This will be one of the prominent affairs of the season, and from all indications, a record crowd will be in attendance. Extensive plans are being made for decorating the club ballroom, elaborately, and novelty favors will be given the guests. A prominent orchestra has been secured for this date.

LUNCHEON GUESTS AT TRAINER HOME

As guests of Mrs. C. E. Trainor of East Lincoln avenue, Friday, 1914 Book club associates enjoyed an elegant luncheon menu at one o'clock, followed by an informal afternoon.

There were covers for 18, at tables attractive with low bowls of baby mums, and a dainty color theme of lavender and white was developed in appointments. Mrs. W. P. Felch assisted.

The customary book exchange and discussions were of interest, and later, some of the guests played bridge, while others knit or sewed.

Mrs. Thomas L. Ashcom, extended an invitation for the November 2 meeting, at her home in New Wilmington.

Mrs. John Scherger and Mrs. Louanna Book were guests at the meeting of the D. W. T. Club last evening in the home of Mrs. W. R. Hanna on Englewood avenue.

MRS. BEADEL ATTENDS CLUB ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Edward W. Beadel, of Rhodes Place, was among the fifty guests at the thirty fifth anniversary celebration of the New Century Club of Youngstown, which yesterday, turned a beautiful tea in the home of Mrs. William O. Brown, in Boardman, members coming from far and near to renew former friendships.

The club which has a membership of prominent Youngstown women, many of whom now reside outside of town, was organized thirty five years ago, on a Friday, at the home of Miss Belle Euwer, the charter members of which Mrs. Beadel is one, arriving in handsome horse drawn carriages.

Yesterday, the majority came in fashionable high powered automobiles, with the exception of Mrs. Henry A. Butler and Mrs. George S. Bishop, who held to tradition and arrived in state, in a horse-drawn buggy, costumed as they were in 1899. They "took the show." The proud horse, with its head high, stared with hauteur at the automobiles, distracting attention from present day vehicles.

Mrs. Butler was the first president, a pioneer club woman, who is still devoted to her club leadership. Featuring the afternoon's entertainment, Friday, was a display of old photographs which recalled days of pompadour and bustles, wasp-waists, and shoes with unbelievably high heels. Miss Belle Euwer, the first hostess, now an honorary member, was present, and warmly greeted.

Noteworthy of mention, in connection with the beautiful decorations in the Brown home for the anniversary gathering, was the large birthday cake, inscribed with N. C. C.—1899-1934 and in a prominent place, was an old fashioned bowl of roscheeked apples, similar to that at the first meeting, which was the only refreshment provided.

The club history, together with letters from absentees, made up a delightful program and served to make the occasion an outstanding one in the memories of the women present.

Willing Workers.

Members of the Willing Workers class of the Croton M. E. church met in the home of Mrs. Ed Mitchell on Neshannock avenue Thursday evening.

Mrs. S. B. Patterson had charge of the business meeting with Mrs. Annie Williams and Mrs. C. H. Hauger conducting the devotionals. After a short business session, a social period was enjoyed, with the members making. The prizes for the best costume was awarded to Mrs. W. E. Caldwell.

The home was attractively decorated in the season's colors. Lunch was served by Mrs. Mitchell, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Albert Mitchell and Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell. Special guests were Eddie Crabbie and Miss Ruth Hogue.

M. E. N. Club

Miss Ruth Miller will entertain the M. E. N. club October 29 at her home on Junior High street.

At the meeting, this week, at the home of Miss Margaret Shelley, on Spruce street, sewing was the diversion and refreshments were served late in the evening.

KID PARTY ENJOYABLE OCCASION OF FRIDAY

A. A. club members enjoyed a "kid" party Friday evening, at the home of Miss Jean Riley, on Pennsylvania avenue.

In ruffled, short frocks, the guests arrived with their collies, and they had a most happy time playing games. Prizes were awarded De De Pander and Sara Helrick. Mrs. Elizabeth Riley sang several solos as a special feature.

At a suitable time, the children were ushered into the dining room where a table, prettily decorated and laden with tasty refreshments was arranged. Places were marked with lollipops, and nursery characters, with the club's song enclosed in each. The hostess was assisted in seeing that her guests were properly fed by her mother, Mrs. David Riley. On November 2, the club will have a Halloween party at the home of Miss Sara Helrick, on Pennsylvania avenue.

MRS. JOHN MOORE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

"When Irish Eyes Were Smiling" might well express the pleased expression on the face of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann McBurney Moore, at her home on the Harlansburg road Friday when her four sons and two daughters gathered her with "Top O' the Mornin' to You, Mother," on her 83rd birthday.

Mrs. Moore has smiling blue eyes, a keen intellect and has kept the traditional Irish sense of humor through the long years. Her days for hard work on the farm are over, but nevertheless she does not spend an idle minute, and as she talked to a News reporter on her birthday, she sat with a shirt of her son's over her knee, neatly putting a patch where it was needed with the smallest and neatest of stitches. She also exhibited some embroidery work that had just been completed, and it was wonderful to behold the perfect stitches of the designs. Mrs. Moore took great pride in exhibiting a piece of work that came from Ireland, and she said the girls "back home" had spent all their leisure in embroidering linens for their hope chests.

Mrs. Moore was born in County Down, Ireland, October 19, 1841, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McBurney and was the oldest of a family of seven children. She is now the only one living. Her father passed away a few years ago at the age of 96, but her mother died at 86 and Mrs. Moore mothered the family until they were grown.

On May 1, 1866, as the bride of John Moore, she arrived from Ireland in New Castle, and went to the farm home on the New Castle road, which has been her home ever since. When she arrived in New Castle, Mrs. Robt. McBurney Sr., mother of Robert McBurney, Walnut street, cooked the first dinner she ate in this city. Mrs. Moore reminisced on days of her girlhood "back home," when she was a playmate of Mrs. McBurney's mother, Mrs. John McBurney, also of Mrs. M. L. Magill, Mont Magill's mother, Mrs. Charles Noeland, and also the Perry brothers, fathers of Dr. S. W. Perry, East North street, and of Fanny Perry. She told of the frolics on the Irish downs while they were all children together.

Mrs. Moore's family consists of her sons and daughters: John B. Moore, of East Brook; S. G. Moore, of Park avenue; W. C. Moore of Mulberry street; W. C. Moore at home, Misses Mary Amelia and Elizabeth Ann, also at home. She also has 14 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

She takes great joy in the visits of her grand children and great grandchildren and keeps herself well informed on the topics of the day, although her grandchildren like to hear the old stories and Irish rhymes of the days when "grandma" was young.

"I'M INNOCENT"

I say to you, "I'm innocent!" and I look you straight in the eyes. Guilty people aren't supposed to be able to "look you straight in the eyes." They are supposed to look at you with eyes that water and shift and admit the guilt the tongue denies. But I look right at you and I say, "I'm innocent. I didn't do it. Somebody else did it. I was somewhere else at the time. I have a perfect alibi, and of course, if you don't believe me, then you're not the friend I thought you were. You MUST believe I'm innocent!"

But of course I'm not really innocent. I'm guilty. I'm as guilty as can be. I did it, and I know that I did it. Nobody else did it but me. I don't know why I did it, but I did. ...Do YOU always know just why you do things? Have you always perfect control of yourself, of your actions? Are YOU always strong, always wise, always certain of what you are doing? Tell me that before you judge me too harshly, before you condemn me.

But why, if I am guilty, do I shout so loudly, with such a show of injured feelings, "I'm INNOCENT?" Why don't I confess my guilt and get it over.

But I fear you will not understand. You understand innocence, but it is possible you may not understand guilt. You will help the innocent, but perhaps you will not help the guilty. I am not sure you will understand how a man can make a mistake, how he can know he is doing the wrong thing, and still do that thing, how he can go straight ahead on a road that leads he knows not where.

You believe in me when you know I am innocent. Could you believe in me, still, and give me your hand, even though I told you I was guilty? I would need more help than when I am guilty. It is so easy to help the innocent. They have the strength of their own guiltlessness. Anybody can help THEM. But who has help for the guilty who do not know where or why they took the turning from innocence to guilt?

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR LADY LUCK?

So you like to be Lady Luck, eh? She is an elusive dame, as you have found many times when you have thought her captured.

Perhaps you have gambled in different ways for many years. Followed out many a system said to be a "sure fire" winner. Frequently you have persuaded friends to join you in your plan for beating the other fellow's game. You have made some winnings, and you were elated, but how quickly they were spent.

Then at last, you were positive of a sure way to "make a nice little piece of change."

You got together all the money you could swing and plunged.

Bing! Away went the whole amount, but it did not deter you from this procedure again and again, with same result, "broke."

By this time you should know that you can't beat a game affording a fat living to a lot of men on the inside.

They are having an easy time because they are supported by a lot of easy marks and suckers just like you.

Wrench yourself loose from such practices.

Quit feeding the other fellow and starving yourself.

AN EMPLOYER GIVES UP

And I came to a place and the streets were still.

And the grass grew high at a factory door.

When workmen more gathered, but why more?

"What happened," I asked, "such a dream to kill?"

An old man answered: "Time was we knew.

The sound of hammer and lathe in here.

We worked at the benches year by year.

And slowly but surely the village grew.

"But we were the tollers who worked for hire.

Ours were the bodies that had to bear.

Day after day in that factory there.

The weights of the loads and the heat of fire.

"One day there appeared at the factory gate.

A stranger who poisoned our minds with distrust.

He called our employer unfair and unjust.

And he taught us to quarrel and taught us to hate.

"We fought with him, hectored him, asked more and more.

Called him names until stand it no longer he could.

"Sins to him men are evil," he said, "I'll be good."

And he closed up forever that factory door."

I reckon if the gent before the "mike" could glance in at the bridge parties and see how little attention very well. "No, daddy," piped the boy.

A local man and his wife were thrown out of an automobile a few days ago and when the man got up he said, "Gee, I hope I didn't break my cigars." His wife said while sitting on the road, "Say, you are your cigars more important than me."

A MONUMENT TO A BIRD

Mormon crickets, recently causing great damage to crops in some sections of the west, are so-called because of their depredations on the crops of the pioneer Mormon settlers. In 1848, the year after the Mormon migration to the Great Salt Lake region, many acres of wheat were planted and the success of the settlement depended upon a bountiful harvest. During the month of May great swarms of the crickets appeared and the young wheat seemed doomed. But, says the story,

TODAY'S STORYETTE

"My dear mother-in-law, I want to make a confession to you. I get into a rage terribly easily, often without cause."

"Don't worry, my dear son-in-law," the answer came back, "as long as I'm in the house you'll never fly into a rage without cause."

"ROCK OF AGES" AND THE BIBLE

The words of the well-known hymn "Rock of Ages" can be coupled with quotations or paraphrases from the Bible in a very interesting way. Of course the song is not made up of literal quotations from the Scriptures, but the lines refer to passages which are strikingly similar:

Rock of ages, cleft for me.—Psalm 62:5-8

Let me hide myself in thee.—Exodus 33:22

Let the water and the blood.—John 5:6

Could my zeal no respite know.—Psalm 69:6

Could my tears forever flow.—Psalm 6:6

Wall Street Optimistic Sees Industrial Peace Hull's Task

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th Street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Wall Street is becoming optimistic. For one thing, there are many inquiries from would-be investors. For another thing, Wall Street sees industrial disputes fading out. It now is conceded that the government's machinery will bring about a meeting point of minds. It does not matter that industries will have to surrender some of their prerogatives to labor.

The final result is what counts—and the final result, as visioned now, will be a gradual upward trend, if there is industrial peace.

PERMANENT

This writer has made a study of numerous articles and books and views holding that the Roosevelt "patching of the capitalistic roof" will not save the structure.

But what if it does? What if the patching becomes, in spite of Roosevelt, an evolutionary process by which the structure is entirely remade without violence?

That view is held in many conservative quarters—with alarm in most.

The trend clearly is in the direction of industrial peace.

DRAW BACK

The chief drawback to recovery, either on a capitalistic or a socialist or a communistic scale is trade barriers.

Quietly, Secretary of State Cordell Hull is trying to perfect agreements that will level trade barriers to the extent of permitting trade to flow among all nations.

Only by such a freer flow of trade can there be hope of lasting business recovery for any nation or any people.

The tie that binds the peoples of the world today is so closely and sensitively wound in and among all peoples none can escape its vibrations—which have been all to the bad since the World War.

Secretary Hull comments, "Our primary purpose is to increase, not merely to divert or to diminish, the sum total of world trade."

Some countries, prior to entering into negotiations for reciprocity treaties, have been boosting tariffs, so that their net concessions will not be very much. Secretary Hull denounces that as getting nowhere.

But countries will have to get somewhere on resuming a normal flow of trade, or there will be revolutions.

A CORRESPONDENT'S VIEW

The majority of persons writing letters to this column express the view that the United States is veering to the "left."

Clarence McConnell of New Wilmington, Pa., concentrates the opinion of many when he writes:

"For several months back I have been very much interested in your articles. You seem to be very broadminded and unprejudiced. And what you experience in mingling with the people is almost exactly what I have experienced."

"I have traveled in 37 states as a farm laborer. . . .

"I was a life-long Republican until the spring of 1932. . . .

"I voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt and I still support most of his ideas for I feel he is for all the people, where Hoover was for the privileged few. I fully realize that President Roosevelt has a difficult task, but I would be much stronger for him if he would swing more to the left."

My ancestors came to this country before the Revolutionary war, therefore I cannot be accused of being a foreigner. I now am a genuine radical—of American birth. Could I be anything less after traveling from coast to coast and from Canadian border to Mexican border and observing things as they are?

"I am surprised at the number of Americans who share my ideas. God placed the fertility in the soil, minerals, gas and oil into the bowels of the earth, and everything is given to all of us for our daily needs. A few animals in human form are trying to control all these things, which are placed here for all. The day of reckoning has come—therefore I feel happy to be among those who will share in righting this great injustice."

SATURDAY, OCT. 20

The World War Day-By-Day

Oct. 20, 1914.—The first merchant ship, the British steamship Glitra, was sunk in the North Sea, off Norway, by the U-17.

It was Germany's answer to Britain's blockade, signaling her campaign to starve out England by methods no less effective than those used by Britain to starve out the Rhineland.

Baron Spiegel Von Feckelsheim tells us the sensations of a U-boat commander as he deals a mortal blow to a ship:

"Noiselessly we slipped closer and closer in our exciting chase. The main thing was that our periscope should not be observed, or the steamers might change its course at the last moment and escape us. Very cautiously, I stuck the tip of the periscope above the surface at intervals of a few minutes, took the position of the steamer in a flash, pulled it down again. To judge from the foaming waves which were cut from the bow, I calculated her speed must be about 15 knots.

"The hunter knows how important it is to have a knowledge of the speed at which his prey is moving. I then plotted the exact angle we needed. I measured this by a scale which had been placed above the sights on the periscope. Now I only had to let the steamer come along until it reached the zero point on the periscope and fire the torpedo.

"Everything went as calculated. The steamer could not see our hardily-swung periscope. I could clearly distinguish the various objects on board—how the captain was walking back and forth on his bridge with a short pipe in his mouth, how the crew was scrubbing the forward deck.

"Torpedo ready!" I called down into the Conrtrole.

Now the steamer bow cut the line in the periscope—now the deck, the bridge, the foremast, the funnel.

"Let go!"

A light trembling shook the boat—the torpedo was on its way.

"Twenty seconds," counted the mate, whose duty it was, with watch in hand, to calculate the exact time elapsed after the torpedo was fired until it was exploded.

"Twenty-two seconds!"

"I saw the ship's people on the bridge had discovered the wake which the torpedo was leaving, a slender stripe. And next there was a terrific shaking."

History Up-to-Date—Oct. 20, 1774.—The American Association, key-stone of American liberty, was organized. A declaration denouncing the foreign slave trade, and pledging signers to non-intercourse with Great Britain, Ireland and West Indies, and non-consumption of their goods, was signed by 82 members of the Continental Congress.

Oct. 26, 1818.—The longest undefended frontier in the world was created by treaty between the United States and Great Britain respecting the U. S.-Canadian boundary. The high contracting parties agreed not to erect fortifications along the border or to maintain naval vessels in the Great Lakes.

The longest undefended frontier has been the longest at peace!

SUNDAY

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 21, 1914.—The sale of alcohol was prohibited in Russia for the duration of the war by decree of the Czar. Nothing must interfere with the fitness of men to be killed. And they mustn't be able to forget the war.

The British government announced that all unnaturalized German and Austrian residents within its borders would be taken to detention camps.

German army that had been hurled at Warsaw to draw Russian pressure from the Austrians in Galicia, began its retreat. The river (Continued On Page Seven)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"GET ME, STEVE!"

However rude or crude are American terms, they are so expressive and impudently near the truth that it is very hard to resist giving them a place in any honest lexicon.

Such terms are "graft," "once-over," "foolproof" and "step on the gas."

This was the explanation given by President George Gordon of Alagadalen College, Oxford, England, for their inclusion in the new supplementary volume of the Oxford Dictionary.

Among the phrases which have been introduced into the English language in the last fifty years and given a place in the dictionary is this rare one, "all of a good day."

Bible Thought For Today

He that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city that is broken down, and without walls.—Proverbs 25:28.

Words of Wisdom

Deep vengeance is the daughter of deep silence.—Alfred.

The world grows better in some ways. The young man who calls to sit in the porch swing no longer brings a mandolin.

King Baseball has abdicated in favor of football, the corn is in the shock and winter is coming on apace. So what? Do your Christmas shopping early!

We are to have another book soon. General Johnson is said to be writing the story of his life for early publication. Well, as a recovery administrator maybe the general will prove to be a good writer.

The couple was married in April 1910 at Dwer, District of Homs, Syria. Later, they came to America and in June 1924 were naturalized. In the meantime two sons had been born to them. Soon after they were naturalized Mrs. Abraham expressed a desire to visit her mother in Syria. Mr. Abraham provided the money and she left, taking her two sons with her. At that time they lived at 217 Weaver street. After writing for his wife to return Abraham says that in May 1927 he sent her $486.50 to pay for tickets. She purchased a ticket for her older son and sent him back, but with the balance of the money she sailed with her other son for Brazil, South America. After staying there for two years she went with her son to the Argentine Republic, where she had a sister, Abraham, who now lives at 412 Long avenue has written his wife repeatedly to come back, but she has failed to respond. Liliant sets forth that they were married in Pittsburgh in January 1921. They lived at a hotel on Smithfield street until March 14, 1931, on which date Liliant charges that her husband sent her to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Badger, of Shenango township. He had lost his job and promised to send for her when he got another. About a month afterwards it is claimed that South got a job in St. Louis. He is alleged to have gone from there to other cities finally arriving in Youngstown. During his absence it is claimed that he took up with another woman with whom he lived as man and wife. The application for divorce is made on the grounds of desertion and adultery.

It is not often that a divorce is traced through several continents, but such is the case with an application for divorce filed by Abigail Abraham against his wife, Marie Abraham. The couple was married in April 1910, at Dwer, District of Homs, Syria. Later, they came to America and in June 1924 were naturalized. In the meantime two sons had been born to them. Soon after they were naturalized Mrs. Abraham expressed a desire to visit her mother in Syria. Mr. Abraham provided the money and she left, taking her two sons with her. At that time they were living at 217 Weaver street. After writing for his wife to return Abraham says that in May 1927 he sent her $486.50 to pay for tickets. She purchased a ticket for her older son and sent him back, but with the balance of the money she sailed with her other son for Brazil, South America. After staying there for two years she went with her son to the Argentine Republic, where she had a sister, Abraham, who now lives at 412 Long avenue has written his wife repeatedly to come back, but she has failed to respond. Coletta And Her Mother On Board U. S. Bound Ship

Dashing Pittsburgh "Play-Girl" Fails To Cause Excitement in Manila

(International News Service)
MANILA, P. I., Oct. 20.—There are too many typhoons and not enough waltzers in Manila to suit Coletta Mulvihill, Pittsburgh, Pa., heiress, so she decided to forsake the Philippine Islands today.
Accompanied by her mother, the girl, who a short time ago married Tommy Green, Pittsburgh truck driver, and left him almost as soon as the couple got away from the altar, went aboard the Dollar Liner President Wilson, just before it sailed here today. Coletta also claims to have a previous marriage, which she says took place in Singapore, to her credit.

Enroute To Orient
The President Wilson is enroute to the United States via the Orient, it was said, but the destination of Coletta and her mother was not revealed.

Coletta's departure was strictly in keeping with her stormy experiences of the last few months—typhoons, signals were flying as the President Wilson gathered headway and steamed out of Manila harbor. Despite her ability to break onto the front pages of newspapers in all parts of the United States Coletta failed to create even a ripple on the surface of journalism in these islands.

Refuse Interview
She also failed to cut any swath in the brilliant night life of Manila, where wrestling is something extremely out of the ordinary. Coletta, despite her reputation in the United States for visiting the nightspots, was not seen in any of Manila's swank places.

Neither Coletta nor her mother would see reporters as they boarded the ship.

Clairton Arrives For Football Game

School Band And Accompanies Team And Rooters For Contest

Determined to redeem themselves for two setbacks in previous games, Clairton High School arrived in New Castle shortly before game time today in special busses. A number of fans accompanied them and while New Castle was a slight favorite to win, the Clairton team was ready to battle all the way. A fifty piece high school band is accompanying the team.

Clairton is a Class AA opponent and eight out of every ten years turns out a team that competes on a level with the best teams in the league. Several years ago they had a contender for state championship honors. This year's team is largely green material that is not shaping up quite as fast as the coach hoped. It may be that today is the day when they click.

County Commissioners are having repairs made to the McConnell's Mills bridge over the Slippery Rock creek. This is one of the few remaining covered bridges in the county.

Papers in a citation on Henry Culbertson to show cause why he should not deliver up possession of a property recently sold at sheriff's sale to Andy Lupiak, were served by the sheriff's deputy, Benjamin E. Hartland, yesterday. Culbertson is given fifteen days to answer.

County Treasurer William O. Pitts who has been confined to his home at Mr. Jackson, by illness since last Monday, is reported better and it is believed he will be able to be back at his office by next Monday.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard has received a picture and description of Thomas H. Robinson, who is wanted in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice S. Stoll, of Louisville, Ky. Robinson is described as being 22 years old, 6 feet tall, slender build, weight 149 pounds, black hair, gray eyes, and fair complexion. His criminal record includes impersonating an officer and robbery. He was confined in an asylum at Nashville, after his arrest for impersonating an officer. The robbery case is still pending.

Mary South of Shenango Township has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for divorce from her husband, James P. South, whose last known address was 122 Rayon avenue, Youngstown, O. Li-bellant sets forth that they were married in Pittsburgh in January 1931. They lived at a hotel on Smithfield street until March 14, 1931, on which date libellant charges that her husband sent her to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Badger, of Shenango township. He had lost his job and promised to send for her when he got another. About a month afterwards it is claimed that South got a job in St. Louis. He is alleged to have gone from there to other cities finally arriving in Youngstown. During his absence it is claimed that he took up with another woman with whom he lived as man and wife. The application for divorce is made on the grounds of desertion and adultery.

It is not often that a divorce is traced through several continents, but such is the case with an application for divorce filed by Abigail Abraham against her wife, Marie Abraham. The couple was married in April 1910, at Dover, District of Columbia. Later, they came to America and in June 1924 were naturalized. In the meantime two sons had been born to them. Soon after they were naturalized Mrs. Abraham expressed a desire to visit her mother in Syria. Mr. Abraham provided the money and she left, taking her two sons with her. At that time they lived at 217 Weaver street. After writing for his wife to return, Abraham says that in May 1927 he sent her $486.50 to pay for tickets. She purchased a ticket for her older son and sent him back, but with the balance of the money she sailed with her other son for Brazil, South America. After staying there for two years she went with her son to the Argentine Republic, where she had a sister, Abraham, who now lives at 412 Long avenue has written his wife repeatedly to come back, but she has failed to respond. He now believes that she has permanently deserted him and prays for a divorce.

Coletta And Her Mother On Board U. S. Bound Ship

Dashing Pittsburgh "Play-Girl" Fails To Cause Excitement In Manila

(International News Service)
MANILA, P. I., Oct. 20.—There are too many typhoons and not enough waltzers in Manila to suit Coletta Mulvihill, Pittsburgh, Pa. heiress, so she decided to forsake the Philippine Islands today.

Accompanied by her mother, the girl, who a short time ago married Tommy Green, Pittsburgh truck driver, and left him almost as soon as the couple got away from the altar, went aboard the Dollar Line President Wilson just before it sailed here today. Coletta also claims to have a previous marriage, which she says took place in Singapore, to her credit.

Enroute To Orient
The President Wilson is enroute to the United States via the Orient, it was said, but the destination of Coletta and her mother was not revealed.

Coletta's departure was strictly in keeping with her stormy experiences of the last few months—typhoon signals were flying as the President Wilson gathered headway and steamed out of Manila harbor. Despite her ability to break onto the front pages of newspapers in all parts of the United States, Coletta failed to create even a ripple on the surface of journalism in these islands.

Refuse Interview
She also failed to cut any swath in the brilliant night life of Manila, where wrestling is something extremely out of the ordinary. Coletta, despite her reputation in the United States for visiting the nightspots, was not seen in any of Manila's swank places.

Neither Coletta nor her mother would see reporters as they boarded the ship.

Clairton Arrives For Football Game

School Band Accompanies Team And Rooters For Contest

Determined to redeem themselves for two setbacks in previous games, Clairton High School arrived in New Castle shortly before game time today in special busses. A number of fans accompanied them and while New Castle was a slight favorite to win, the Clairton team was ready to battle all the way. A fifty piece high school band is accompanying the team.

Clairton is a Class AA opponent and eight out of every ten years turns out a team that competes on a level with the best teams in the league. Several years ago they had a contender for state championship honors. This year's team is largely green material that is not shaping up quite so fast as the coach hoped. It may be that today is the day when they click.

Visluta was too much of a natural barrier to be overcome, and Hindenburg's army was exposed to attack from three directions by five armies. His retreat, arranged by Ludendorff, was as masterly as his advance.

Meanwhile, Russians were pounding again at East Prussia, which Hindenburg, Ludendorff and Hoffmann had saved in the so-called Battle of Tannenberg. Reinforcements were rushed there from the western front, further softening the striking power of the armies that were endeavoring to crush the allied armies at Ypres.

History Up-to-Date—Oct. 21, 1797
—The Constitution, "Old Ironsides," most renowned of U. S. warships, was launched at Boston. At the time she was the most powerful ship in the world; her 55 guns out-classed European frigates which customarily carried 22; her lighter bow and stern with lower sides, made her faster; her heavier timbers provided better protection from gunfire.

The Constitution afloat today is not the original Old Ironsides! (Through the years and various reconstructions, all her parts have been replaced.)

Oct. 21, 1808—Samuel Smith was born. He wrote the words of "America," which is not an American song. The tune came from the English, who call it God Save the King; they in turn got it from the Prussians, who sing it as Hell dir im Siegerkranz. Originally it was a Gregorian chant expressing a prayer for king or emperor.

Oct. 21, 1872—The emperor of Germany decided a dispute between the United States and Great Britain in favor of the U. S. Both countries claimed Porto Rico. The Kaiser, as arbitrator, upheld the U. S. claims.

Oct. 21, 1879—Thomas A. Edison gave the first demonstration of his electric lamp, the earliest incandescent light of practical value. It was not, however, the first successful electric light.

Notable Nativities—Alfred Nobel, b. 1833, inventor of dynamite, who left his wealth to honor the artists of peace.  Samuel Taylor Coleridge, b. 1772, opium-fiend who wrote the classic Rime of the Ancient Mariner.  Will Carleton, b. 1845, versifier— "the sweet singer of Michigan."  William E. Dodd, b. 1869, ambassador to Germany.

You're Wrong If You Believe— That Thomas A. Edison invented the electric lamp.

He didn't. Humphry Davy produced electric light with carbon points as early as 1800, and Westminster Bridge, London, and various lighthouses in England and France were lighted by carbon electric lamps in 1858, 20 years before Edison gave the first demonstration of his incandescent lamp.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

KEYSTONE LIVESTOCK AT PITTSBURGH SHOW

Lawrence county was represented with exhibits at the Pittsburgh Livestock Show this week, October 16, 17 and 18.

Lawrence and Mercer counties sent baby calves into the show ring while Butler, Crawford, Indiana, Somerset, Venango, and Washington counties exhibited 300 fat lambs. About 90 of these were from 4-H clubs, while the rest were from the flocks of adult farmers.

The Lawrence county 4-H Baby Beef club members exhibiting calves were Laura Brown, Thomas Brown and Ida Peebles.

This is the second show sponsored by the Union Stock Yards at Pittsburgh. In addition to the Pennsylvania entries, there are exhibits from Ohio and West Virginia.

According to W. B. Connell, in charge of livestock extension work in Pennsylvania, an event of this kind merits the support of livestock farmers and it should make a real contribution to any program of livestock improvement.

HOLIDAYS NOT LIMIT OF TURKEY MARKETING

Since the greater part of the turkey crop is marketed at home and the price of turkeys has been favorable both before and after the holiday season, growers should consider seriously marketing their birds only when they reach prime condition. Those that are prime in October can be sold at that time. On the other hand, some of the late-hatched immature turkeys might be held over until after the holiday season.

In four of five years the October price of live turkeys on the New York City market has been equal to or higher than the November price. Furthermore, the January and February prices have been higher than the holiday prices in two of the five years.

A study made last year on methods of marketing turkeys in the state of New York showed that more than three-fourths of the birds were sold either direct to consumers or to retailers. Since only a small percentage of the turkeys were sent to commission houses, the turkey growers apparently were developing a market at home for fresh killed and prime birds.

The present "family sized" turkey is one weighing from 10 to 12 pounds ready for the oven. The bird would weigh 14 to 16 pounds alive. This medium sized bird has been gaining gradually in favor for home use at the expense of its heavier brother.

DIG AND STORE SEED POTATOES CAREFULLY

Potatoes to be used for seed purposes should be carefully dug and stored to insure good keeping, to prevent the spread of disease, to hinder early sprouting, and to assure strong vitality when planted.

Comparisons of seed stored in well-insulated storage houses or cellars, pitted and in basements of the farm home show the first two methods much superior. Seed stored in well-insulated or underground storages where a constant temperature of from 34 to 40 degrees was maintained during the storage period have out-yielded potatoes stored in common house cellars by as much as 60 bushels per acre. Likewise, potatoes properly pitted have consistently out-yielded seed stored in common house cellars.

One of the most important factors in the storage of seed potatoes is the avoidance of mechanical injuries. Injuries of potatoes, such as skinning, cutting and bruising, result in shriveling and permit the entrance of infection of various storage organisms causing weak sprouts or rotting of the seed.

The biggest objection to house cellar storage is the high or uneven temperature which commonly prevails. Seed stored under such conditions is certain to sprout earlier in the spring and too often necessitates desprouting of the seed before planting. The weaker will be the plants which grow from it. Desprouted seed will in most cases result in a greater number of stalks per hill, giving a higher per cent of second grade tubers.

Where a well-insulated storage house or cellar is not available for the storage of seed, pitting is recommended. Care should be exercised to avoid pitting seed during hot weather. It is better to wait until cool weather prevails.

PENN STATE TO HAVE POULTRY COURSE

Penn State's fourteenth annual poultry short course is scheduled for October 22 to 26. The Pennsylvania State Poultry Association will have its semi-annual meeting as a part of the program. Seventeen speakers including all the members of the poultry husbandry resident teaching, research, and extension staffs, will appear on the program. Every phase of poultry management will be discussed. A baby chick sexing school will be an innovation.

POTATO RECORD

J. G. McKissick and Son of Scott township have qualified as members of the Keystone 400 bushel potato club, by producing over 400 bushel of potatoes to a measured acre. The yield for the measured acre was 460 bushels.

Fall Arbor Day Bulletin Issued

Suggestions For Teachers As The Best Way To Observe The Day Are Given

(International News Service) "HARRISBURG Oct. 20.—A new bulletin for use of teachers has been issued by the Department of Public Instruction as an aid to public schools observing fall Arbor and Bird Day on Friday, October 19. Copies of the bulletin have been made available to all schools through county and district superintendents.

Charles A. Babcock, superintendent of schools in Oil City, is credited with founding National Bird Day 40 years ago when he held a special observance in his schools. This was the first bird day in America and the idea spread rapidly to other parts of the state and country.

On May 28, 1915, Bird Day was established in Pennsylvania by legislative act to be observed on the same day as Arbor Day. Various activities for Arbor and Bird Day observance in the schools are suggested in the new bulletin which also discusses the importance of Pennsylvania's trees and flowers, the value of birds to man and the planting and caring for school grounds.

Checker Enthusiasts To Gather Tonight

On Saturday, October 20 at 7:30 p. m. the fans at the call of Jack Herbert, will meet to resume their playing. Herbert looks forward to a fine reunion.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18, 1934.
Mr. Fred L. Rentz, President,
The News Company,
New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Rentz:
The splendid invitation of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association to hold the 73rd annual convention of our association in New Castle, Pa., October 9-10-11, 1935, was given very favorable consideration by the Committee on Place of Next Convention, at Indiana last week.

The many fine letters from co-operating agencies were received with great enthusiasm by the committee. For several months, however, Lewistown had been making a strong bid to entertain the next state convention, and inasmuch as they had not had the meeting for forty-eight years and we had been to New Castle in 1927, the committee felt that the Lewistown invitation should be accepted for 1935. We are very appreciative of your invitation and assurances of co-operation. We would like to come to New Castle in 1935, if the invitation should be repeated.

Hoping that Lawrence county will have a splendid delegation to Lewistown in 1935, we remain,

Sincerely yours,
PENNSYLVANIA STATE
SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION, INC.

ANSWER TO INQUIRY OF MRS. ROBERTS

Editor News:

It is unfortunate that the reasons causing the City Council to authorize a survey of the rates charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company have not been published. Approximately 22 cents of every tax dollar goes to the Pennsylvania Power Company. In addition many thousands of dollars are being paid by the consumers to this company for domestic, commercial and industrial service.

The purpose of the survey is to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power Company is collecting too much for light and power in the City of New Castle.

When money is loaned on property, banks do not take the opinion of the owners as to its value but send out their own appraisers and determine for themselves its value. The City Council is calling to their aid expert electrical engineers to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power is excessive in their rates to the city and the commercial and domestic users of light and power.

When all facts that enter into determining what they charge are considered the need of expert assistants is at once obvious. Without the aid of experts how could the City Council determine the Company's proper value on which to base rates. The engineers employed by the City Council to make the survey are among the best qualified in the country.

The experience of other municipalities demonstrate the value of a survey. In most municipalities where a survey has been authorized it has resulted in a material saving to the taxpayer and users of light and power.

We ask, if what is being charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company is just and reasonable why should there be any opposition to competent engineers making a survey? Would not a survey help to substantiate their position?

Volant Woman Falls; Breaks Hip

(Special To The News) VOLANT, Oct. 20.—Miss Nannie Potter has been admitted to the Grove City hospital, where she is undergoing treatment for a broken hip.

Miss Potter, when coming down stairs at her home early Tuesday morning, missed her footing and stepped over the bottom step, and fell. Members of the family, being aroused by her calls, appeared on the scene at once, and immediately summoned a physician. His examination determined she had broken her hip, and was removed to the hospital where she will be confined for sometime.

Coletta And Her Mother On Board U. S. Bound Ship

Dashing Pittsburgh "Play-Girl" Fails To Cause Excitement In Manila

(International News Service)
MANILA, P. I., Oct. 20.—There are too many typhoons and not enough typhoons in Manila to suit Coletta Mulvihill, Pittsburgh, Pa., heiress, so she decided to forsake the Philippines today.

Accompanied by her mother, the girl, who a short time ago married Tommy Green, Pittsburgh truck driver, and left him almost as soon as the couple got away from the altar, went aboard the Dollar Liner President Wilson just before it sailed here today.

Coletta also claims to have a previous marriage, which she says took place in Singapore, to her credit.

Enroute To Orient
The President Wilson is enroute to the United States via the Orient, it was said, but the destination of Coletta and her mother was not revealed.

Coletta's departure was strictly in keeping with her stormy experiences of the last few months—typhoons, signals, flying, and the President Wilson gathering headway and steamed out of Manila harbor.

Despite her ability to break out on the front pages of newspapers in all parts of the United States Coletta failed to create even a ripple on the surface of journalism in these islands.

Refuse Interview
She also failed to cut any swath in the brilliant night life of Manila, where wrestling is something extremely out of the ordinary. Coletta, despite her reputation in the United States for visiting the nightspots, was not seen in any of Manila's swank places.

Neither Coletta nor her mother would see reporters as they boarded the ship.

Clairton Arrives For Football Game
Determined to redeem themselves for two setbacks in previous games, Clairton High School arrived in New Castle shortly before game time today in special busses. A number of fans accompanied them and while New Castle was a slight favorite to win, the Clairton team was ready to battle all the way. A fifty piece high school band is accompanying the team.

Clairton is a Class AA opponent and eight out of every ten years turns out a team that competes on a level with the best teams in the league. Several years ago they had a contender for state championship honors. This year's team is largely green material that is not shapling up quite as fast as the coach hoped. It may be that today is the day when they click.

Today Is The Day

Vistula was too much of a natural barrier to be overcome, and Hindenburg's army was exposed to attack from three directions by five armies. His retreat, arranged by Ludendorff, was as masterly as his advance.

Meanwhile, Russians were pounding again at East Prussia, which Hindenburg, Ludendorff and Hoffmann had saved in the so-called Battle of Tannenberg. Reinforcements were rushed there from the western front, further softening the striking power of the armies that were endeavoring to crush the allied armies at Ypres.

History Up-to-Date—Oct. 21, 1797 "The Constitution, 'Old Ironsides,' most renowned of U. S. warships, was launched at Boston. At the time she was the most powerful ship in the world; her 55 guns out-classed European frigates which customarily carried 32; her lighter bow and stern with lower sides, made her faster; her heavier timbers provided better protection from gunfire.

The Constitution afloat today is not the original 'Old Ironsides' (Through the years and various constructions, all her parts have been replaced.)

Oct. 21, 1808—Samuel Smith was born. He wrote the words of "America," which is not an American song. The tune came from the English, who call it God Save the King; they in turn got it from the Prussians, who sing it as Hell dir im Siegeskranz. Originally it was a Gregorian chant expressing a prayer for king or emperor.

Oct. 21, 1872—The emperor of Germany decided a dispute between the United States and Great Britain in favor of the U. S. Both countries claimed Porto Rico. The Kaiser, as arbitrator, upheld the U. S. claims.

Oct. 21, 1879—Thomas A. Edison gave the first demonstration of his electric lamp, the earliest incandescent light of practical value. It was not, however, the first successful electric light.

Notable Nativities—Alfred Nobel, b. 1833, inventor of dynamite, who left his wealth to honor the artists of peace.  Samuel Taylor Coleridge, b. 1772, opium-fiend who wrote the classic Rime of the Ancient Mariner.  Will Carleton, b. 1845, versifier, the "sweet singer of Michigan." William E. Dodd, b. 1869, ambassador to Germany.

You're Wrong If You Believe—That Thomas A. Edison invented the electric lamp.

He didn't. Humphry Davy produced electric light with carbon points as early as 1800, and Westminster Bridge, London, and various lighthouses in England and France were lighted by carbon electric lamps in 1858, 20 years before Edison gave the first demonstration of his incandescent lamp.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

KEYSTONE LIVESTOCK AT PITTSBURGH SHOW

Lawrence county was represented with exhibits at the Pittsburgh Livestock Show this week, October 16, 17 and 18.

Lawrence and Mercer counties sent baby hives into the show ring while Butler, Crawford, Indiana, Somerset, Venango, and Washington counties exhibited 300 fat lambs. About 90 of these were from 4-H clubs, while the rest were from the flocks of adult farmers.

The Lawrence county 4-H Baby Beef club members exhibiting calves were Laura Brown, Thomas Brown and Ida Peckles.

This is the second show sponsored by the Union Stock Yards at Pittsburgh. In addition to the Pennsylvania entries, there are exhibits from Ohio and West Virginia.

According to W. B. Connell, in charge of livestock extension work in Pennsylvania, an event of this kind merits the support of livestock farmers and it should make a real contribution to any program of livestock improvement.

HOLIDAYS NOT LIMIT OF TURKEY MARKETING

Since the greater part of the turkey crop is marketed at home and the price of turkeys has been favorable both before and after the holiday season, growers should consider seriously marketing their birds only when they reach prime condition. Those that are prime in October can be sold at that time. On the other hand, some of the late-hatched immature turkeys might be held over until after the holiday season.

In four of five years the October price of live turkeys on the New York City market has been equal to or higher than the November price. Furthermore, the January and February prices have been higher than the holiday prices in two of the five years.

A study made last year on methods of marketing turkeys in the state of New York showed that more than three-fourths of the birds were sold either direct to consumers or to retailers. Since only a small percentage of the turkeys were sent to commission houses, the turkey growers apparently were developing a market at home for fresh killed and prime birds.

The present "family sized" turkey is one weighing from 10 to 12 pounds ready for the oven. The bird would weigh 14 to 16 pounds alive. This medium sized bird has been gaining gradually in favor for home use at the expense of its heavier brother.

DIG AND STORE SEED POTATOES CAREFULLY

Potatoes to be used for seed purposes should be carefully dug and stored to insure good keeping, to prevent the spread of disease, to hinder early sprouting, and to assure strong vitality when planted.

Comparisons of seed stored in well-insulated storage houses or cellars, pitted and in basements of the farm home show the first two methods much superior. Seed stored in well-insulated or underground storages where a constant temperature of from 34 to 40 degrees was maintained during the storage period have out-yielded potatoes stored in common house cellars by as much as 80 bushels per acre. Likewise, potatoes properly pitted have consistently out-yielded seed stored in common house cellars. One of the most important factors in the storage of seed potatoes is the avoidance of mechanical injuries. Injuries of potatoes, such as skinning, cutting and bruising, result in shriveling and permit the entrance of infection of various storage organisms causing weak sprouts or rotting of the seed.

The biggest objection to house cellar storage is the high or uneven temperature which commonly prevails. Seed stored under such conditions is certain to sprout earlier in the spring and too often necessitates despoiling of the seed before planting. The offender seed is sprouted, the weaker will be the plants which grow from it. Desprouted seed will in most cases result in a greater number of stalks per hill, giving a higher per cent of second grade tubers.

Where a well-insulated storage house or cellar is not available for the storage of seed, pitting is recommended. Care should be exercised to avoid pitting seed during hot weather. It is better to wait until cool weather prevails.

PENN STATE TO HAVE POULTRY COURSE

Penn State's fourteenth annual poultry short course is scheduled for October 22 to 26. The Pennsylvania State Poultry Association will have its semi-annual meeting as a part of the program. Seventeen speakers including all the members of the poultry husbandry resident teaching, research, and extension staffs will appear on the program. Every phase of poultry management will be discussed. A baby chick sexing school will be an innovation.

POTATO RECORD

J. G. McKissick and Son of Scott township have qualified as members of the Keystone 400 bushel potato club, by producing over 400 bushels of potatoes to a measured acre. The yield for the measured acre was 480 bushels.

Fall Arbor Day Bulletin Issued

Suggestions For Teachers As The Best Way To Observe The Day Are Given

(International News Service) "HARRISBURG Oct. 20.—A new bulletin for use of teachers has been issued by the Department of Public Instruction as an aid to public schools observing fall Arbor and Bird Day on Friday, October 19. Copies of the bulletin have been made available to all schools through county and district superintendents. Dr. Charles A. Babcock, superintendent of schools in Oil City, is credited with founding National Bird Day 40 years ago when he held a special observance in his schools. This was the first bird day in America and the idea spread rapidly to other parts of the state and country.

On May 28, 1915, Bird Day was established in Pennsylvania by legislative act to be observed on the same day as Arbor Day.

Various activities for Arbor and Bird Day observance in the schools are suggested in the new bulletin which also discusses the importance of Pennsylvania's trees and flowers, the value of birds to man and the planting and caring for school grounds.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18, 1934.
Mr. Fred L. Rentz, President,
The News Company,
New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Rentz:
The splendid invitation of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association to hold the 73rd annual convention of our association in New Castle, Pa., October 9-10-11, 1935, was given very favorable consideration by the Committee on Place of Next Convention, at Indiana last week.

The many fine letters from co-operating agencies were received with great enthusiasm by the committee. For several months, however, Lewistown had been making a strong bid to entertain the next state convention, and inasmuch as they had not had the meeting for forty-eight years and we had been to New Castle in 1927, the committee felt that the Lewistown invitation should be accepted for 1935. We are very appreciative of your invitation and assurances of co-operation. We would like to come to New Castle in 1936, if the invitation should be repeated.

Hoping that Lawrence county will have a splendid delegation to Lewistown in 1935, we remain,

Sincerely yours,
PENNSYLVANIA STATE SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION, INC.
WALTER E. MYERS,
General Secretary.

ANNE W. KINKAID,
Office Superintendent.

ANSWER TO INQUIRY OF MRS. ROBERTS

Editor News:

It is unfortunate that the reasons causing the City Council to authorize a survey of the rates charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company have not been published. Approximately 22 per cent of every tax dollar goes to the Pennsylvania Power Company. In addition, many thousands of dollars are being paid by the consumers to this company for domestic, commercial and industrial service.

The purpose of the survey is to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power Company is collecting too much for light and power in the City of New Castle.

When money is loaned on property, banks do not take the opinion of the owners as to its value but send out their own appraisers and determine for themselves its value.

The City Council is calling to their aid expert electrical engineers to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power Company is excessive in their rates to the city and the commercial and domestic users of light and power.

When all facts that enter into determining what they charge are considered the need of expert assistants is at once obvious. Without the aid of experts how could the City Council determine the Company's proper value on which to base rates?

The engineers employed by the City Council to make the survey are among the best qualified in the country.

The experience of other municipalities demonstrate the value of a survey. In most municipalities where a survey has been authorized it has resulted in a material saving to the taxpayer and users of light and power.

We ask, if what is being charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company is just and reasonable why should there be any opposition to competent engineers making a survey? Would not a survey help to substantiate their position?

Health Week

"Disease of the heart, considered as a group, is the leading cause of death today," says a bulletin of the Lawrence County Medical Society, which is today celebrating Pennsylvania Health Week, an annual observance throughout the state, sponsored by the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania.

"Like the motor of an engine, the heart requires care and consideration," continues the bulletin, "yet most people are more or less indifferent to the causes that may affect this vital and fragile bit of machinery. Throughout life there are many contributory ailments to heart disease: sickness of child, excesses in eating, over-exercising and drinking which eventually and often too early take their toll of lives by way of the heart."

In celebration of Pennsylvania Health Day there will be public addresses by qualified doctors and other modes of presenting to the people of the State the benefits of preventive medicine as a way to health."

Volant Woman Falls; Breaks Hip

(Special To The News) VOLANT, Oct. 20.—Miss Nannie Potter has been admitted to the Grove City hospital, where she is undergoing treatment for a broken hip.

Miss Potter, when coming down stairs at her home early Tuesday morning, missed her footing and stepped over the bottom step, and fell. Members of the family, being aroused by her calls, appeared on the scene at once, and immediately summoned a physician. His examination determined she had broken her hip, and was removed to the hospital where she will be confined for sometime.

The Show Goes On.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE WORLD is at least one thousand million years old, according to scientists, but something new always crops up.

In New York is revealed a "propagandist agency." You never hear of that. You pay a certain amount per day and the concern supplies as many propagandists as you choose to pay. The hired propagandists "give out information by word of mouth in a campaign, as per copy to be furnished by the client."

THESE propagandists, if you wish, will whisper "three lepers were found working in the factory, producing such and such goods," spreading the impression that to buy from that factory means to contract leprosy. The owner of the other factory pays for the propaganda.

OR YOU can hire men to go about the Stock Exchange or other business neighborhoods whispering: "Have you heard about Mr. So and So? No? Well, if he owes you money collect it while you can."

EARL MARTIN, editor of the Cleveland News sends this wire: "Congressman Martin L. Sweetner thinks President Roosevelt within next few weeks will call in all bonds issued for the World War and pay them off in cash."

Many have urged the President to call in as many Government bonds as can be called legally and pay owners with nice, new green money, exactly as valuable as the bonds since neither bonds nor greenbacks are payable in gold.

To call in a few billions in bonds and give owners cash would save the Government, in the long run, billions in interest. It would also make it necessary for bond owners, getting the cash, to invest or spend that money. That would help business.

GENTLEMEN with kidnaping plans should mark the fact, gratifying to Attorney General Cummings and his able staff, that IN THIRTY-ONE KIDNAPING CASES THERE HAVE BEEN SEVENTY-FOUR ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS.

The foolish young person named Edward Lickwala, who wrote to Edsel Ford, "You are on the spot, and if you want to live it will cost you $5,000," did not cost Edsel Ford one cent. But Mr. Lickwala is now on an uncomfortable spot, in a penitentiary to stay for ten years because he wrote that letter.

Other kidnapers have gone to the electric chair, and still others will go. Crime is really not profitable.

EVERY NIGHT and at matinees Mary Larkin de Phillips, the bright spotlight revealing her beauty, skill and daring, rode a "unicycle," a sort of bicycle cut in two, on a wire stretched seventy-five feet above the stage. After each performance she came to a platform where her husband was waiting while the crowd applauded.

On Wednesday night there was a change. The figure in shining white, reaching the dismounting platform, tripped, fell seventy-five feet into the wing and was killed. Several women fainted, the curtain came down, hiding the dead woman's husband kneeling beside her.

SOME SPECTATORS, men and women, horror-stricken, left the theatre, but presently the curtain rose again and the show went on.

So it is with life. Individuals that make up the human race fall, as do the leaves from the forest trees. We "fall," but "the show goes on."

It is hard for each of us to believe that after his turn has come everything will go on, exactly as before.

The important question is, are we only falling leaves that fall and are forgotten, like forest leaves? Or is there some merciful Hand that picks up the human dead leaves, and takes them elsewhere to be happy forever?

SIR CHARLES MARSTON, British archaeologist, says he can prove that our alphabet, credited to the Phoenicians, was borrowed by them from the Hebrews.

The Phoenicians in the opinion of Father Burrows, who has investigated the matter, tried to combine the Hebrew alphabet with cuneiform script when they wrote a message of reverence and thank offering to Shur, Mut and Alai, three of their important gods.

The Israelites had an alphabet of twenty-seven letters, fifteen hundred years before Christ, long before the Phoenicians, daring seamen, adventurers and traders, escaped from the pictograph stage. But the Phoenicians were a branch of the Semitic race, therefore the honor of devising the first alphabet rests with that race, no matter which branch deserves it.

It seems unjust to the whole Semitic race, however, to name the alphabet for Alpha and Beta, the first two letters of the Greek alphabet (Copyright, 1934, by King Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all Other Rights Reserved.)

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

KEYSTONE LIVESTOCK AT PITTSBURGH SHOW

Lawrence county was represented with exhibits at the Pittsburgh Livestock Show this week, October 16, 17 and 18.

Lawrence and Mercer counties sent baby heaves into the show ring while Butler, Crawford, Indiana, Somerset, Venango, and Washington counties exhibited 300 fat lambs. About 90 of these were from 4-H clubs, while the rest were from the flocks of adult farmers.

The Lawrence county 4-H Baby Beef club members exhibiting calves were Laura Brown, Thomas Brown and Ida Peebles.

This is the second show sponsored by the Union Stock Yards at Pittsburgh. In addition to the Pennsylvania entries, there are exhibits from Ohio and West Virginia.

According to W. B. Connell, in charge of livestock extension work in Pennsylvania, an event of this kind merits the support of livestock farmers and it should make a real contribution to any program of livestock improvement.

HOLIDAYS NOT LIMIT OF TURKEY MARKETING

Since the greater part of the turkey crop is marketed at home and the price of turkeys has been favorable both before and after the holiday season, growers should consider seriously marketing their birds only when they reach prime condition.

Those that are prime in October can be sold at that time. On the other hand, some of the late-hatched immature turkeys might be held over until after the holiday season.

In four of five years the October price of the turkeys on the New York City market has been equal to or higher than the November price. Furthermore, the January and February prices have been higher than the holiday prices in two of the five years.

A study made last year on methods of marketing turkeys in the state of New York showed that more than three-fourths of the birds were sold either direct to consumers or to retailers. Since only a small percentage of the turkeys were sent to commission houses, the turkey growers apparently were developing a market at home for fresh killed and prime birds.

The present "family sized" turkey is one weighing from 10 to 12 pounds ready for the oven. The bird would weigh 14 to 16 pounds alive. This medium sized bird has been gaining gradually in favor for home use at the expense of its heavier brother.

DIG AND STORE SEED POTATOES CAREFULLY

Potatoes to be used for seed purposes should be carefully dug and stored to insure good keeping, to prevent the spread of disease, to hinder early sprouting, and to assure strong vitality when planted.

Comparisons of seed stored in well-insulated storage houses or cellars, pitted and in basements of the farm home show the first two methods much superior. Seed stored in well-insulated or underground storages where a constant temperature of from 34 to 40 degrees was maintained during the storage period have out-yielded potatoes stored in common house cellars by as much as 60 bushels per acre.

Likewise, potatoes properly pitted have consistently out-yielded seed stored in common house cellars. One of the most important factors in the storage of seed potatoes is the avoidance of mechanical injuries. Injuries of potatoes, such as skinning, cutting and bruising, result in shriveling and permit the entrance of infection of various storage organisms causing weak sprouts or rotting of the seed.

The biggest objection to house cellar storage is the high or uneven temperature which commonly prevails. Seed stored under such conditions is certain to sprout earlier in the spring and too often necessitates despoiling of the seed before planting. The weaker seed is sprouted, the weaker will be the plants which grow from it. Desprouted seed will in most cases result in a greater number of stalks per hill, giving a higher per cent of second grade tubers.

Where a well-insulated storage house or cellar is not available for the storage of seed, pitting is recommended. Care should be exercised to avoid pitting seed during hot weather. It is better to wait until cool weather prevails.

PENN STATE TO HAVE POULTRY COURSE

Penn State's fourteenth annual poultry short course is scheduled for October 22 to 26. The Pennsylvania State Poultry Association will have its semi-annual meeting as a part of the program. Seventeen speakers including all the members of the poultry husbandry resident teaching, research, and extension staffs, will appear on the program. Every phase of poultry management will be discussed. A baby chick sexing school will be an innovation.

POTATO RECORD

J. G. McKissick and Son of Scott township have qualified as members of the Keystone 400 bushel potato club, by producing over 400 bushel of potatoes to a measured acre. The yield for the measured acre was 400 bushels.

Fall Arbor Day Bulletin Issued

Suggestions For Teachers As The Best Way To Observe The Day Are Given

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20—A new bulletin for use of teachers has been issued by the Department of Public Instruction as an aid to public schools observing fall Arbor and Bird Day on Friday, October 19.

Copies of the bulletin have been made available to all schools through county and district superintendents.

Charles A. Babcock, superintendent of schools in Oil City, is credited with founding National Bird Day 40 years ago when he held a special observance in his schools. This was the first bird day in America and the idea spread rapidly to other parts of the state and country.

On May 28, 1915, Bird Day was established in Pennsylvania by legislative act to be observed on the same day as Arbor Day.

Various activities for Arbor and Bird Day observance in the schools are suggested in the new bulletin which also discusses the importance of Pennsylvania's trees and flowers, the value of birds to man and the planting and caring for school grounds.

Checker Enthusiasts To Gather Tonight

Crisp fall weather is ideal checker weather and at the Y. M. C. A. where the main floor checker-room has been quiet for months, the more enthusiastic fans are formulating plans for a revival which will bring a hum of activity to the Y lobby each night.

On Saturday, October 20 at 7:30 p. m. the fans at the call of Jack Herbert, will meet to resume their playing. Herbert looks forward to a fine reunion.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18, 1934.
Mr. Fred L. Rentz, President,
The News Company,
New Castle, Pa.
My Dear Mr. Rentz:

The splendid invitation of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association to hold the 73rd annual convention of our association in New Castle, Pa., October 9-10-11, 1935, was given very favorable consideration by the Committee on Place of Next Convention, at Indiana last week.

The many fine letters from co-operating agencies were received with great enthusiasm by the committee. For several months, however, Lewistown had been making a strong bid to entertain the next state convention, and inasmuch as they had not had the meeting for forty-eight years and we had been to New Castle in 1927, the committee felt that the Lewistown invitation should be accepted for 1935. We are very appreciative of your invitation and assurances of co-operation. We would like to come to New Castle in 1936, if the invitation should be repeated.

Hoping that Lawrence county will have a splendid delegation to Lewistown in 1935, we remain,
Sincerely yours,

PENNSYLVANIA STATE SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION, INC.
WALTER E. MYERS,
General Secretary.
ANNE W. KINKAID,
Office Superintendent.

ANSWER TO INQUIRY OF MRS. ROBERTS

Editor News:

It is unfortunate that the reasons causing the City Council to authorize a survey of the rates charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company have not been published. Approximately 22 cents of every tax dollar goes to the Pennsylvania Power Company. In addition many thousands of dollars are being paid by the consumers to this company for domestic, commercial and industrial service.

The purpose of the survey is to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power Company is collecting too much for light and power in the City of New Castle.

When money is loaned on property, banks do not take the opinion of the owners as to its value but send out their own appraisers and determine for themselves its value.

The City Council is calling to their aid expert electrical engineers to determine whether or not the Pennsylvania Power is excessive in their rates to the city and the commercial and domestic users of light and power.

When all facts that enter into determining what they charge are considered the need of expert assistants is at once obvious. Without the aid of experts how could the City Council determine the Company's proper value on which to base rates. The engineers employed by the City Council to make the survey are among the best qualified in the country.

The experiences of other municipalities demonstrate the value of a survey. In most municipalities where a survey has been authorized it has resulted in a material saving to the tax payer and users of light and power.

We ask, if what is being charged by the Pennsylvania Power Company is just and reasonable why should there be any opposition to competent engineers making a survey? Would not a survey help to substantiate their position?

The Show Goes On.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE WORLD is at least one thousand million years old, according to scientists, but something new always crops up.

In New York is revealed a "propagandist agency." You never hear of that. You pay a certain amount per day and the concern supplies as many propagandists as you choose to pay. The hired propagandists "give out information by word of mouth in a campaign, as per copy to be furnished by the client."

THESE propagandists, if you wish, will whisper "three lepers were found working in the factory, producing such and such goods," spreading the impression that to contract leprosy. The owner of the other factory pays for the propagandists.

OR YOU can hire men to go about the Stock Exchange or other business neighborhoods whispering: "Have you heard about Mr. So and So? No? Well, if he owes you money collect it while you can."

EARL MARTIN, editor of the Cleveland News sends this wire: "Congressman Martin L. Sweeney (think President Roosevelt) within next few weeks will call in all bonds issued for the World War and pay them off in cash."

Many have urged the President to call in as many Government bonds as can be called legally and pay owners with nice, new green money, exactly as valuable as the bonds since neither bonds nor greenbacks are payable in gold.

To call in a few billions in bonds and give owners cash would save the Government, in the long run, billions in interest. It would also make it necessary for bond owners, getting the cash, to invest or spend that money. That would help business.

GENTLEMEN with kidnapping plans should mark the fact, gratifying to Attorney General Cummings and his able staff, that, IN THIRTY-ONE KIDNAPING CASES THERE HAVE BEEN SEVENTY-FOUR ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS.

The foolish young person named Edward Lickwala, who wrote to Edsel Ford, "You are on the spot, and if you want to live it will cost you $5,000," did not cost Edsel Ford one cent. But Mr. Lickwala is now on an uncomfortable spot, in a penitentiary to stay for ten years because he wrote that letter.

Other kidnapers have gone to the electric chair, and still others will go.

Crime is really not profitable.

EVERY NIGHT and at matinees Mary Larkin de Phillips, the bright spotlight revealing her beauty, skill and daring, rode a "unicycle," a sort of bicycle cut in two, on a wire stretched seventy-five feet above the stage. After each performance she came to a platform where her husband was waiting while the crowd applauded.

On Wednesday night there was a change. The figure in shining white, reaching the dismounting platform, tripped, fell seventy-five feet into the wing and was killed.

Several women, hiding the dead woman's husband kneeling beside her.

SOME SPECTATORS, men and women, horror-stricken, left the theatre, but presently the curtain rose again and the show went on.

So it is, with life. Individuals that make up the human race fall, as do the leaves from the forest trees. We "fall," but "the show goes on."

It is hard for each of us to believe that after his turn has come everything will go on, exactly as before.

The important question is, are we only falling leaves that fall and are forgotten, like forest leaves? Or is there some merciful Hand that picks up the human dead leaves, and takes them elsewhere to be happy forever?

SIR CHARLES MARSTON, British archaeologist, says he can prove that our alphabet, credited to the Phoenicians, was borrowed by them from the Israelites.

The Phoenicians in the opinion of Father Burrows, who has investigated the matter, tried to combine the Hebrew alphabet with cuneiform script when they wrote a message of reverence and thank offering to Shur, Mut and Alai, three of their important gods.

The Israelites had an alphabet of twenty-seven letters, fifteen hundred years before Christ, long before the Phoenicians, daring seamen, adventurers and traders, escaped from the pictograph stage. But the Phoenicians were a branch of the Semitic race, therefore the honor of devising the first alphabet rests with that race, no matter which branch deserves it.

It seems unjust to the whole Semitic race, however, to name the alphabet for Alpha and Beta, the first two letters of the Greek alphabet (Copyright, 1934, by King Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all Other Rights Reserved.)

Bessemer Defeats Shenango High, 12-7

Frankie Navarra, Bessemer, Scores Twice On 35 And 23 Yard Runs

GAME PLAYED AT BESSEMER FRIDAY

Under a cool autumn wind, while several hundred spectators looked on, eleven gridirers flaunting the colors of Bessemer high, practically annexed the Class B Lawrence County football title by winning a clean cut 12-7 triumph over a determined Shenango high team, on Friday afternoon at Bessemer.

Bessemer's spirited advances in the first two quarters were responsible for the victory. After Murphy kicked off to Mills on the 30 yard mark, Shenango tried three plays and was forced to kick. Glass, for Bessemer, cut his way through left end, and carried the oval to the 35 yard line before being stopped. Frank Navarra, stocky right half, zig zagged his way around right end and through the Shenango team for the first touchdown of the contest. Clark place kicked for the extra point, but failed. Score, Bessemer 6, Shenango 0.

On the first play following the kick-off, this same Navarra thrilled the large crowd with another 23 yard scamper through right end, placing the ball within scoring distance. Shenango's line held like a stone wall. The East New Castle gridirers took the ball but were unable to make any gains and were forced to punt again. Several beautiful line plunges by Clark and Navarra again moved the ball to the 22 yard mark. Glass knifed his way through right tackle to the 10, as the first quarter ended. Score, Bessemer 6, Shenango 0.

Bessemer was forced to give up the ball at the start of the second quarter. Shenango attempted two plays and booted the oval to safety. Through the work of Glass and Navarra, the Cement City pig skin catchers moved the ball to the 27. On a successful lateral pass, Shoup to Navarra. Bessemer tallied its second touchdown of the contest. Navarra took the ball on the 23 yard line and ran the remainder of the distance for the score. Clark tried to boot the ball between the poles for the extra point, but failed. Score, Bessemer 12, Shenango 0.

Bessemer staged another advance near the end of the half, moving the oval to the 10 yard line, through a 30 yard pass Clark to Gibson, but failed to score. Shenango's line was playing a smart defensive game as the half ended with Bessemer on top, 12-0.

A determined Shenango eleven took the field in the third period. The East New Castle club played Bessemer on even terms during this quarter.

A pretty heave Glass to Hosnik brought the ball to the 32, where the Shenango team again held. The quarter ended shortly. Score, Bessemer 12, Shenango 0.

Shenango Scores
In the final period, Mills intercepted a Bessemer pass. Two perfect passes, Tanner to Hortig, brought the ball to the 14 yard mark. The second pass was called "good" by the referee who claimed a Bessemer player interfered with the receiver. Shenango attempted a line plunge but could not make a gain. On the next play, Tanner tossed the ball to Hortig who caught it behind the Bessemer line, for Shenango's only touchdown of the game. McCahey fought his way through the line for the extra point. Two plays were executed before the tilt ended with Bessemer on top, 12-7.

The contest was featured by the playing of Frank Navarra and Alfred Glass for Bessemer. The work of Hosnik was outstanding on the line.

Shenango's best bets were McCahey, Hortig and Tanner. Near the end of the game Gierling, Shenango quarterback was hurt and had to be carried off the field. The young man's right foot was injured.

The contest was one of the best played on the Bessemer field this season. Several hundred rooters for both elevens, saw the contest.

SHAMROCKS TO PLAY

DICK, NOW COACH AT NORTHWESTERN, ELEVATED THE BASKETBALL INDIANS FROM A SMALL RESERVATION COLLEGE TO ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN IN THE COUNTRY.

PAT HANLEY
NEW BOSTON UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL COACH

IN AN effort to put its team in the national football limelight, Boston university this year secured the services of Pat Hanley as head coach. For years the Boston team have never been outstanding even among the teams of the east, and were rated as low as 183rd in the national football ratings last fall.

This did not react very favorably with the students, alumni and administration at the Boston school. Now, after an extensive survey of 108 possible coaches, the university believes it has found its man of the hour in Pat Hanley.

Hanley cannot perform any miracles this year as his line averages only 170 pounds and his backfield 155 pounds. He is building on the future policy and hopes to be up with the leaders in a few years.

THE SPORT PATROL

By JOHN J. MAHER, JR.

THE BIG TEN
This season the Big Ten race is to be a little different with the most consistent winner in the past down in a lower notch and two of the former catch lighter-outers up closer to the top. Michigan has in recent years been the leader, while Chicago and Iowa have been to the Big Ten what Cincinnati is to the National league.

However, the Maroons and Hawkeyes, apparently tiring of the frigid atmosphere of the lower berths in the race, decided new coaches would put them on the main track again. So Iowa coaxed Ossie Solem away from Drake and Chicago went south after Clark Shaughnessy.

Ossie and Clark went to work with their new teams and soon each let out a hint of what could be expected later from the former cellar occupants. Iowa beat Northwestern in the early part of the 1933 race, 7 to 0, and in the fall end of the season the Maroons came to life and startled everyone, themselves most of all, by decisively defeating Dartmouth Green Wave.

So with those warnings pre-viewed Iowa and Chicago opened the 1934 season with a very respectful reputation. Chicago hurled Carroll and Michigan while the Hawkeyes trounced South Dakota and Northwestern, though they were upset by Nebraska by one point.

But with Michigan no longer dominating and the weaker teams decidedly strengthened, Indiana also is stronger with Bo McMillin in charge, the Western Conference now offers good football teams but a very compact group with no great degree of differences between the weakest and strongest clubs. Look them over: Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern, Chicago, Wisconsin, Purdue, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio State are all regarded as major opponents in any part of the country where they may be playing.

Indiana, considered one of the weakest teams in the conference this season, was good enough to trounce Ohio U. and the Pop Warner's Temple team. Temple had previously defeated V. P. I. and Texas A. & M.

With a conference composed of ten teams as strong as these it is difficult to say how the season will close. However, our forecast of the Big Ten finish is as follows: Illinois and Minnesota tied for first; Iowa, third; Ohio State, fourth; Chicago, fifth; Purdue, sixth; Northwestern, seventh; Michigan, eighth;

Duquesne Hands Haskell Indians 67 To 0 Setback, Temple Tops West Virginia

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner's Temple university warriors displayed their mettle by defeating West Virginia university, 28 to 13, under the arc lights at Philadelphia last night. Temple scored all its points in the third period and the Mountaineers registered theirs in the final quarter.

A speedy Duquesne eleven scored an intersectional triumph, 67 to 0, over the Haskell Indians of Kansas. The Indians were helpless in the face of the Dukes' running attack and aerial game.

Meeting unexpected strength in Geneva, W. & J. pushed over a touchdown in the final quarter to win 6 to 0 at Beaver Falls. The Governors and Presidents battled on even terms during the major portion of the contest. Late in the fourth period, W. & J. started its march and Holland plunged over the goal from the five-yard mark.

Punching out a touchdown in the second quarter on a 33-yard run by Ed Farrell, Muhlenberg scored a 7-0 victory last night over Albright.

Important Grid Battles Today

There are four important class AA conference football games being played today and the leadership of the high school grid league may change hands ere the sun sinks in the west.

New Castle and Clairton are playing at New Castle today. The game started at 2:30 p. m.
The other games listed today are: Wilkesburg at Jeannette, Greensburg at Norwin, McKeesport at New Kensington. Washington high is playing a non-league game today with Uniontown.

Charleroi played a non-league game last night and lost to Donora high in a night tilt, 12 to 0.

ERIE EAST HIGH WINS
Erie East high defeated the strong Seaboard high eleven at Erie last night under the floodlights 6 to 0. It was the first setback of the year for the Steubers. Erie East is undefeated so far this year and are headed for the Erie championship.

Americanism: Spending millions for magazine advertising, filling the ads with honey that wouldn't fool anybody who could read.

TEMPLE'S SCHEDULE
Pop Warner's Temple Owls may not be the best team in the nation but the players should be authorities when questions arise concerning sectional football.

Temple began its season against Virginia Poly, a southern foe. After polishing off the Virginians, the Owls conquered Texas A. & M., a team from the Southwest and then tied Indiana, a member of the Western Conference.

Now Pop takes on West Virginia University a sturdy band of mountaineers from Morgantown. All the games are played in Philadelphia where Temple is located.

Next, Pop, apparently feeling a change of climate should do the team good, will lead his charges to Milwaukee (via train and not on horseback) to meet Marquette, another Mid-west foe.

After that game, Temple comes back to Philly to try a little New England opposition from Holy Cross. Following this are games with Carnegie Tech, Villanova, and Bucknell, and then Pop Warner's second season at Temple is ended.

It is a colorful schedule regardless of the outcome of the games. Temple plays nine opponents, five of them with intersectional rivals, yet they leave Philadelphia only once. Temple meets teams from the Mid-west, New England, the South, the Southwest, and East, which should get the players acquainted with the various accents at least.

Two Games In Junior League

Two grid games are on tap for Sunday in the junior football league. The Crotons and Miltons are leading the junior league today with two victories and no defeats.

The league leaders will tangle Sunday at Milton street field. Fred Marcella and Joe Howley will officiate. The other game finds the Williams and West Side A. C. at the Lee avenue field. The Catholics-Canaries game has been cancelled. The games start at 2:30 p. m. Jones and Kuliek will handle the West Side-Williams game.

Following is the standing of the league:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Croton	2	0	1.000
Miltons	2	0	1.000
Canaries	1	1	.500
Williams	1	1	.500
West Side	0	1	.000
Catholics	0	1	.000

Mars Defeats Union High 6-0

Irwin Goes Over For Lone Touchdown In Second Period Of Game—

Rounds Is Speaker

ATHLETIC FIELD IS DEDICATED

Union high school football team lost to Mars high 6 to 0 Friday afternoon at Union high field.

Louis Round, former Lawrence county relief administrator, was present and between halves of the game made a short but interesting talk on the new Union high athletic field and cited figures on the cost of the field. Mr. Round in his discourse said in part: "If I had it to do over again I would build more fields like this one, and also more playgrounds for the children, with the relief funds. There is no better way to spend money than for the pleasure of the school children in various kinds of facilities for play and entertainment."

Round Dedicates Field.
Mr. Round occupied the only place on the field dedication services, and he received a big round of applause. The Union athletic field is one of the finest of its type in this section of the state and Union township is very proud of the new field. A good athletic field has been a crying need at Union for quite some time. Mr. Round was introduced to the fans by W. L. Burckhart, faculty manager at Union high.

Getting back to the football game, it was a hard fought contest in every period. Union high never got within the Mars 20-yard line at any time. Mars had but one real opportunity to score and Irwin made good with a touchdown in the second period from the 1-yard line. It was Irwin who advanced the ball from the Mars 35-yard line to the Union 25-yard line after picking up a fumble by Woods. In a series of plays Mars soon had the ball in scoring position.

Mars Leads At Half.
The first half ended 6 to 0 with Mars leading. In the third and fourth periods neither team could get in a scoring position. The biggest part of the last periods was fought in mid-field with fumbles quite frequent, and blocked punts being in evidence.

Union high checked off a couple of first downs in the second half of the game, while Mars altogether had five first downs. In forward passing neither team looked the part. Union throwing five passes and completing two of them, while Mars threw four passes and didn't make any of them good. The game was unusual in the fact that there were not many penalties inflicted. Union high drew two five-yard penalties for offside. Mars did not draw a penalty.

Denny, the Union right halfback, had to be taken out of the game with a badly bruised chest. Coach Davey Boyd used a number of subs in an effort to score, but to no avail. Mars only used two subs in the game.

Zelenople Next.
Denny, Huling and Annerella did the most of the Union ground gaining, while on the line the work of Rudesill, Thompson and Calazza stood out as the best. Woods, Irwin, Langherst and Datt were the best in the Mars lineup.

Union high's next game will be with Zelenople high Friday at the Zelenople high field.

The summary:
Union High 0 Mars 6

Warren High Upsets Girard

Warren High Wins Fifth Straight Victory Of Year 25 To 7 Over Girard

Warren, O., high school football team, one of the most powerful high school teams in the state of Ohio or perhaps the eastern section of the country, last night defeated Girard, O., at Warren in a night game 25 to 7. It was the fifth straight victory of the year for the Presidents of Harding high.

Cononico tallied two of the Warren touchdowns, and one each was made by Bugzavich and Broden. New Castle high "Red Hurricane" will play at Warren high next Friday night in what looms as one of the highlights of the scholastic grid world.

You Pay, They Whisper.

Kidnapers, Please Read.
The Show Goes On.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE WORLD is at least one thousand million years old, according to scientists, but something new always crops up.

In New York is revealed a "propagandist agency." You never hear of that. You pay a certain amount per day and the concern supplies as many propagandists as you choose to pay. The hired propagandists "give out information by word of mouth in a campaign, as per copy to be furnished by the client."

THESE propagandists, if you wish, will whisper "three lepers were found working in the factory, producing such and such goods," spreading the impression that to buy from that factory means to contract leprosy. The owner of the other factory pays for the propaganda.

OR YOU can hire men to go about the Stock Exchange or other business neighborhoods whispering: "Have you heard about Mr. So and So? No? Well, if he owes you money collect it while you can."

EARL MARTIN, editor of the Cleveland News sends this wire:

"Congressman Martin L. Sweetney thinks President Roosevelt within next few weeks will call in all bonds issued for the World War and pay them off in cash." Many have urged the President to call in as many Government bonds as can be called legally and pay owners with nice, new green money, exactly as valuable as the bonds since neither bonds nor greenbacks are payable in gold.

To call in a few billions in bonds and give owners cash would save the Government in the long run, billions in interest. It would also make it necessary for bond owners, getting the cash, to invest or spend that money. That would help business.

GENTLEMEN with kidnaping plans should mark the fact, gratifying to Attorney General Cummings and his able staff, that, IN THIRTY-ONE KIDNAPING CASES THERE HAVE BEEN SEVENTY-FOUR ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS.

The foolish young person named Edward Lickwala, who wrote to Edsel Ford, "You are on the spot, and if you want to live it will cost you $5,000," did not cost Edsel Ford one cent. But Mr. Lickwala is now on an uncomfortable spot, in a penitentiary to stay for ten years because he wrote that letter.

Other kidnapers have gone to the electric chair, and still others will go.

Crime is really not profitable.

EVERY NIGHT and at matinees Mary Larkin de Phillips, the bright spotlight revealing her beauty, skill and daring, rode a "unicycle," a sort of bicycle cut in two, on a wire stretched seventy-five feet above the stage. After each performance she came to a platform where her husband was waiting while the crowd applauded.

On Wednesday night there was a change. The figure in shining white, reaching the dismounting platform, tripped, fell seventy-five feet into the wing and was killed. Several women fainted, the curtains came down, hiding the dead woman's husband kneeling beside her.

SOME SPECTATORS, men and women, horror-stricken, left the theatre, but presently the curtain rose again and the show went on. So it is with life. Individuals that make up the human race fall, as do the leaves from the forest trees. We "fall," but "the show goes on."

It is hard for each of us to believe that after his turn has come everything will go on, exactly as before.

The important question is, are we only falling leaves that fall and are forgotten, like forest leaves? Or is there some merciful Hand that picks up the human dead leaves, and takes them elsewhere to be happy forever?

SIR CHARLES MARSTON, British archaeologist, says he can prove that our alphabet, credited to the Phoenicians, was borrowed by them from the Israelites.

The Phoenicians in the opinion of Father Burrows, who has investigated the matter, tried to combine the Hebrew alphabet with cuneiform script when they wrote a message of reverence and thank offering to Shur, Mut and Alai, three of their important gods.

The Israelites had an alphabet of twenty-seven letters, fifteen hundred years before Christ, long before the Phoenicians, daring seamen, adventurers and traders, escaped from the photograph stage. But the Phoenicians were a branch of the Semitic race, therefore the honor of devising the first alphabet rests with that race, no matter which branch deserves it.

It seems unjust to the whole Semitic race, however, to name the alphabet for Alpha and Beta, the first two letters of the Greek alphabet (Copyright, 1934, by King Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all Other Rights Reserved.)

Hundred Guests At Dinner Event
Week Day Religious Education Association Has Fellowship Dinner

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—The Week Day Religious Education Association held its fellowship supper last evening in the spacious dining room of the First Christian church. An even one hundred diners gathered about the tables.

The invocation was asked by the Rev. Mr. Patton, pastor of the hostess church. The president, Rev. Arthur M. Stevenson reported the good news that Mrs. L. C. Barnhart and Mrs. Joseph Young, who were the teachers last year have consented to be the teachers this year. The work will begin early in November and in all of the buildings where the first six grades are taught. The association was honored in having as the speaker of the evening, the Rev. S. P. Franklin, Ph. D., head of the School of Religious Education and of Religion, the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Franklin complimented Ellwood City upon this evidence of interest in religious education, and further, that, whereas, on account of the depression, many communities have given up similar forms of work, this community has continued to keep the work going, even if on a smaller scale.

In his address, Dr. Franklin stressed the importance of a great unity in the whole program of religious education. He cited the interesting fact that there were more Sunday school teachers than there were public school teachers. A tremendous responsibility rests upon the local church to see to it that these teachers have all the training possible for this important work. No other school attempts such a wide scope of teaching as does the church school.

The canvass for funds for the work of week day Bible teaching will be set in motion in a few days, or just as soon in each ward as the ward organization is completed. The first report will be given at the next meeting of the Association which was appointed for Sunday afternoon, November 4, 2:00 p. m., at the First Presbyterian church.

CONFERENCE AT KNOX CHURCH
Union Meeting Of District Seven Is Conducted Friday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—More than 200 representatives of the Camp Run U. P. Concord M. E. Providence Baptist, North Sewickley Presbyterian, Knox Presbyterian, Hickory Knell Church of God and Good Will Union Sunday schools gathered at the Knox church last evening for the quarterly conference of district 7 of Beaver county Sunday School Association.

An impressive song service was conducted by Joseph Ford, after which a devotional period was led by Misses Dorothy Nye and Agnes Swartz. Rev. R. E. Bell offered a prayer and Miss Doris Cable and Mary Hazen contributed a duet, "Under His Wing."

The group was then divided into three divisions, adults, young people and children. Thomas Baird, the adult superintendent, had secured Attorney Shooty of Beaver as a speaker, and his subject was "Relations Between the Sunday School and the Church." Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tosh, county officers, gave brief addresses.

Miss Dorothy Nye presided in the young people's division. Mrs. McCarter of Darlington, the county young people's superintendent, was the speaker and spoke about the state convention to be held in November in Scranton.

The children were in charge of Miss Catherine Czar and Mrs. Lawrence Zeigler held their attention with a program of stories and songs.

Ellwood City Man Killed By Train

Sam Klimock Dies Shortly After Being Struck At Switch Track Here

CORONER POTTER TO HOLD INQUEST

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—Sam Klimock, 39, of Fifteenth street, Ellwood City, died shortly after being struck by a train on a switch track of the Matthews Conveyor Company at 10:55 o'clock this morning. His body was badly mangled.

From an investigation conducted by Chief of Police W. C. Morrison and Patrolman James Hayes and County Coroner Orville Potter, it was learned that Klimock had gone from the Evans Forge plant, where he is employed, to the curb market on Seventh street. After purchasing his needs he started to go back to the Evans Forge plant and in doing so had to cross the switch track of the Matthews Conveyor.

Engineer A. Murray and Fireman Stock declared to the officials that they did not see Klimock on the tracks in the path of the train until it was practically on him and it was impossible to do anything. Klimock died before the body could be removed from the scene. He made his home with the Bolhak family on Fifteenth street. Funeral services are incomplete and will be announced later.

Coroner Potter will conduct an inquest into the death the latter part of next week.

Way Is Paved For New Regency To Deal With Situation Caused By King's Death

(International News Service) BELGRADE, Oct. 20.—Yugoslavia cleared the way today for a concentration cabinet to straighten out the internal difficulties arising from the slaying of King Alexander.

Premier Uzunovitch and his cabinet resigned, permitting the regency council freedom in selection of a government "better able to deal with the situation resulting from the assassination of our king."

Contrary to some reports, the Little Entente Nations took no actual moves against Hungary and Italy, which have been freely accused of granting asylum to political terrorists from Yugoslavia.

Bessemer Defeats Shenango High, 12-7

Frankie Navarra, Bessemer, Scores Twice On 35 And 23 Yard Runs

GAME PLAYED AT BESSEMER FRIDAY

Under a cool autumn wind, while several hundred spectators looked on, eleven gridders flaunting the colors of Bessemer high, practically annexed the Class B Lawrence County football title by winning a clean cut 12-7 triumph over a determined Shenango high team, on Friday afternoon at Bessemer.

Bessemer's spirited advances in the first two quarters were responsible for the victory. After Murphy kicked off to Mills on the 30 yard mark, Shenango tried three plays and was forced to kick. Glass, for Bessemer, cut his way through left end, and carried the oval to the 35 yard line before being stopped. Frank Navarra, stocks right half, zigzagged his way around right end and through the Shenango team for the first touchdown of the contest. Clark place kicked for the extra point, but failed. Score, Bessemer 6, Shenango 0.

On the first play following the kick-off, this same Navarra thrilled the large crowd with another 25 yard scamper through right end, placing the ball within scoring distance. Shenango's line held like a stone wall. The East New Castle gridders took the ball but were unable to make any gains and were forced to punt again. Several beautiful line plunges by Clark and Navarra again moved the ball to the 22 yard mark. Glass knifed his way through right tackle to the 10, as the first quarter ended. Score, Bessemer 6, Shenango 0.

Bessemer was forced to give up the ball at the start of the second quarter. Shenango attempted two plays and booted the oval to safety. Through the work of Glass and Navarra, the Central City big ship catchers moved the ball to the 37. On a successful lateral pass, Shoun to Navarra, Bessemer tallied its second touchdown of the contest. Navarra took the ball on the 23 yard line and ran the remainder of the distance for the score. Clark tried to boot the ball between the poles for the extra point, but failed. Score, Bessemer 12, Shenango 0.

Bessemer staged another advance near the end of the half, moving the oval to the 19 yard line, through a 30 yard pass Clark to Gibson, but failed to score. Shenango's line was playing a smart defensive game as the half ended with Bessemer on top, 12-0.

A determined Shenango eleven took the field in the third period. The East New Castle club played Bessemer on even terms during this quarter.

A pretty heavy Glass to Hosnik brought the ball to the 32, where the Shenango team again held. The quarter ended shortly. Score, Bessemer 12, Shenango 0.

In the final period, Mills intercepted a Bessemer pass. Two perfect passes, Tanner to Hortig, brought the ball to the 14 yard mark. The second pass was called "good" by the referee who claimed a Bessemer player interfered with the receiver. Shenango attempted a line plunge but could not make a gain. On the next play, Tanner tossed the ball to Hortig who caught it behind the Bessemer line, for Shenango's only touchdown of the game. McConahy fought his way through the line for the extra point. Two plays were executed before the tilt ended with Bessemer on top, 12-7.

The contest was featured by the playing of Frank Navarra and Alfred Glass for Bessemer. The work of Hosnik was outstanding on the line.

Shenango's best bets were McConahy, Hortig and Tanner. Near the end of the game Gartling, Shenango's quarterback, was hurt and had to be carried off the field. The young man's right foot was injured.

The contest was one of the best played on the Bessemer field this season. Several hundred rooters for both elevens, saw the contest.

SHAMROCKS TO PLAY

The New Castle Shamrock football team, coached by "Pat" Reider, former Indiana State star, will go to Ellwood City Ewing Park Sunday afternoon for a game with the fast Ellwood Y. M. C. club. The game starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Then, too, it is possible that college men are smarter because the smarter ones go to college.

INTRODUCING PAT HANLEY

By JACK SORDS

PAT AND HIS BROTHER

DICK, NOW COACH AT NORTHWESTERN, ELEVATED THE HASKELL INDIANS FROM A SMALL RESERVATION COLLEGE TO ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN IN THE COUNTRY.

NEW BOSTON UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL COACH

Pat is 35 years old, married and has a son, Jack, seven. He is a graduate of Washington State, where his brother Dick played under Lone Star Dietz.

After he was graduated from college, he coaches two high school teams, then joined his brother Dick and elevated the Haskell Indians from a small reservation college to one of the best known in the country.

The Hanley brothers spent four years with the Indians, and then took over the task at Northwestern. They spent seven years at Northwestern and guided the Wildcats to two conference championships.

Pat has had plenty of big-time coaching experience, and is an ideal man for the Boston university job. He has always been a builder, and his is just another assignment for him.

Hanley cannot perform any miracles this year as his line averages only 170 pounds and his backfield 155 pounds. He is building on the future policy and hopes to be up with the leaders in a few years.

Wisconsin, ninth, and Indiana, tenth.

TEMPLE'S SCHEDULE

Pop Warner's Temple Owls may not be the best team in the nation but the players should be authorities when questions arise concerning sectional football.

Temple began its season against Virginia Poly, a southern foe. After polishing off the Virginians, the Owls conquered Texas A. & M., a team from the Southwest and then tied Indiana, a member of the Western Conference.

Now Pop takes on West Virginia University, a sturdy band of mountaineers, from Morgantown. All these games are played in Philadelphia where Temple is located.

Next, Pop, apparently feeling a change of climate should do the team good, will lead his charges to Milwaukee (via train and not on horseback) to meet Marquette, another Mid-west foe.

After that, Temple comes back to Philly to try a little New England opposition from Holy Cross. Following this are games with Carnegie Tech, Villanova, and Bucknell, and then Pop Warner's second season at Temple is ended.

It is a colorful schedule regardless of the outcome of the games. Temple plays the opponents five of them with inter-sectional rivals, yet they leave Philadelphia only once. Temple meets teams from the Mid-west, New England, the South, the Southwest, and East, which should get the players acquainted with the various accents at least.

Two Games In Junior League

Two grid games are on tap for Sunday in the junior football league. The Crotons and Millions are leading the junior league today with two victories and no defeats.

The league leaders will tangle Sunday at Milton street field. Fred Marcella and Joe Hawley will officiate. The other game finds the Williams and West Side A. C. at the Loc avenue field. The Catholics-Canaries game has been cancelled. The games start at 2:30 p. m. Jones and Kulick will handle the West Side-Williams game.

Following is the standing of the league:

Croton	W.	L.	Pct.
Millions	2	0	1.000
Canaries	1	1	.500

Duquesne Hands Haskell Indians 67 To 0 Setback, Temple Tops West Virginia

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner's Temple university warriors displayed their mettle by defeating West Virginia university, 26 to 13, under the arc lights at Philadelphia last night. Temple scored all its points in the third period and the Mountaineers registered theirs in the final quarter.

A speedy Duquesne eleven scored an intersectional triumph, 67 to 0, over the Haskell Indians of Kansas. The Indians were helpless in the face of the Duquesne running attack and aerial game.

Meeting unexpected strength in Geneva, W. & J. pushed over a touchdown in the final quarter to win 6 to 0 at Beaver Falls. The Covenanters and Presidents battled on even terms during the major portion of the contest. Late in the fourth period, W. & J. started its march and Molland plunged over the goal line for the five-yard mark.

Funding out a touchdown in the second quarter on a 33-yard run by Ed Farrell, Mublenburg scored a 7-0 victory last night over Albright.

Mars Defeats Union High 6-0

Irwin Goes Over For Lone Touchdown In Second Period Of Game—

Rounds Is Speaker

ATHLETIC FIELD IS DEDICATED

Union high school football team lost to Mars high 6 to 0 Friday afternoon at Union high field.

Louis Round, former Lawrence county relief administrator, was present and between halves of the game made a short but interesting talk on the new Union high athletic field and cited figures on the cost of the field. Mr. Round in his discourse said in part: "If I had it to do over again I would build more fields like this one, and also more playgrounds for the children, with the relief funds. There is no better way to spend money than for the pleasure of the school children in various kinds of facilities for play and entertainment."

Round Dedicates Field

Mr. Round occupied the only place on the field dedication services, and he received a big round of applause. The Union athletic field is one of the finest of its type in this section of the state and Union township is very proud of the new field. A good athletic field has been a crying need at Union for quite some time. Mr. Round was introduced to the fans by W. L. Burkhart, faculty manager at Union high.

Getting back to the football game, it was a hard fought contest in every period. Union high never got within the Mars 20-yard line as any time. Mars had but one real opportunity to score and Irwin made good with a touchdown in the second period from the 1-yard line. It was Irwin who advanced the ball from the Mars 35-yard line to the Union 25-yard line after picking up a fumble by Woods. In a series of plays Mars soon had the ball in scoring position.

Mars Leads At Half

The first half ended 6 to 0 with Mars leading. In the third and fourth periods neither team could get in a scoring position. The biggest part of the last periods was fought in mid-field with fumbles quite frequent, and blocked punts being in evidence.

Union high clicked off a couple of first downs in the second half of the game, while Mars altogether had five first downs. In forward passing neither team looked the part, Union throwing five passes and completing two of them, while Mars threw four passes and didn't make any of them good. The game was unusual in the fact that there were not many penalties inflicted. Union high drew two five-yard penalties for offside. Mars did not draw a penalty.

Denny, the Union right halfback, had to be taken out of the game with a badly bruised chest. Coach Dave Boyd used a number of subs in an effort to see, but to no avail. Mars only used two subs in the game.

Zelenople Next

Denny, Hulung and Annerella did the most of the Union ground gaining, while on the line the work of Rudesill, Thompson and Calazza stood out as the best. Woods, Irwin, Langherst and Datt were the best in the Mars lineup.

work will begin early in November and in all of the buildings where the first six grades are taught.

The association was honored in having as the speaker of the evening, the Rev. S. P. Franklin, Ph. D., head of the School of Religious Education and of Religion, the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Franklin complimented Ellwood City upon this evidence of interest in religious education, and further, that, whereas, on account of the depression, many communities have given up similar forms of work, this community has continued to keep the work going, even if on a smaller scale.

In his address, Dr. Franklin stressed the importance of a great unity in the whole program of religious education. He cited the interesting fact that there were more Sunday school teachers than there were public school teachers. A tremendous responsibility rests upon the local church to see to it that these teachers have all the training possible for this important work. No other school attempts such a wide scope of teaching as does the church school.

The canvass for funds for the work of week day Bible teaching will be set in motion in a few days, or just as soon in each ward as a ward organization is completed. The first report will be given at the next meeting of the Association which was appointed for Sunday afternoon, November 4, 2:00 p. m., at the First Presbyterian church.

Hundred Guests At Dinner Event

Week Day Religious Education Association Has Fellowship Dinner

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—The Week Day Religious Education Association held its fellowship supper last evening in the spacious dining room of the First Christian church. An even one hundred diners gathered about the tables.

The invocation was asked by the Rev. Mr. Patton, pastor of the hostess church. The president, Rev. Arthur M. Stevenson reported the good news that Mrs. L. C. Barnhart and Mrs. Joseph Young, who were the teachers last year have consented to be the teachers this year. The work will begin early in November and in all of the buildings where the first six grades are taught.

The association was honored in having as the speaker of the evening, the Rev. S. P. Franklin, Ph. D., head of the School of Religious Education and of Religion, the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Franklin complimented Ellwood City upon this evidence of interest in religious education, and further, that, where, on account of the depression, many communities have given up similar forms of work, this community has continued to keep the work going, even if on a smaller scale.

In his address, Dr. Franklin stressed the importance of a great unity in the whole program of religious education. He cited the interesting fact that there were more Sunday school teachers than there were public school teachers. A tremendous responsibility rests upon the local church to see to it that these teachers have all the training possible for this important work. In other school attempts such a wide scope of teaching as does the church school.

The canvass for funds for the work of week day Bible teaching will be set in motion in a few days, or just as soon in each ward as the first report will be given at the next meeting of the Association which was appointed for Sunday afternoon, November 4, 2:00 p. m., at the First Presbyterian church.

Stock Market Is Dull Today

Prices Show Very Little Material Change In Opening Of Market Today

UTILITY SHARES
IN NARROW RANGE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The stock market was dull today with prices showing very little material change.

While the main body of stocks showed no clear cut trend, the movement of prices appeared to be toward irregularly lower levels. Railroad shares were only moderately active and tended to work moderately under yesterday's closing prices. New York Central, Atchafon, Lackawanna and several other trading favorites were quiet and moderately easy.

There was little to feature the trading in industrial stocks. United States Steel, Bethlehem and American Can moved in a narrow range fractionally under yesterday's finish. Utility shares presented a similar appearance as they moved in a narrow range under the leadership of Consolidated Gas.

Low priced merchandising shares including National Dept. Stores, McClelland and City Stores, were probably the most active issues in the market advancing moderately.

The commodity markets were generally easier. Wheat and corn dipped fractionally, while cotton turned heavy after steadiness at the opening.

Oils were quiet.

Prices Show Very Little Material Change In Opening Of Market Today

UTILITY SHARES
IN NARROW RANGE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The stock market was dull today with prices showing very little material change.

While the main body of stocks showed no clear cut trend, the movement of prices appeared to be toward irregularly lower levels.

Railroad shares were only moderately active and tended to work moderately under yesterday's closing prices. New York Central, Atchafalpa, Lackawanna and several other trading favorites were quiet and moderately easy.

There was little to feature the trading in industrial stocks. United States Steel, Bethlehem and American Can moved in a narrow range fractionally under yesterday's finish. Utility shares presented a similar appearance as they moved in a narrow range under the leadership of Consolidated Gas.

Low priced merchandising shares including National Dept. Stores, McClelland and City Stores, were probably the most active issues in the market advancing moderately.

The commodity markets were generally easier. Wheat and corn dipped fractionally, while cotton turned heavy after steadiness at the opening.

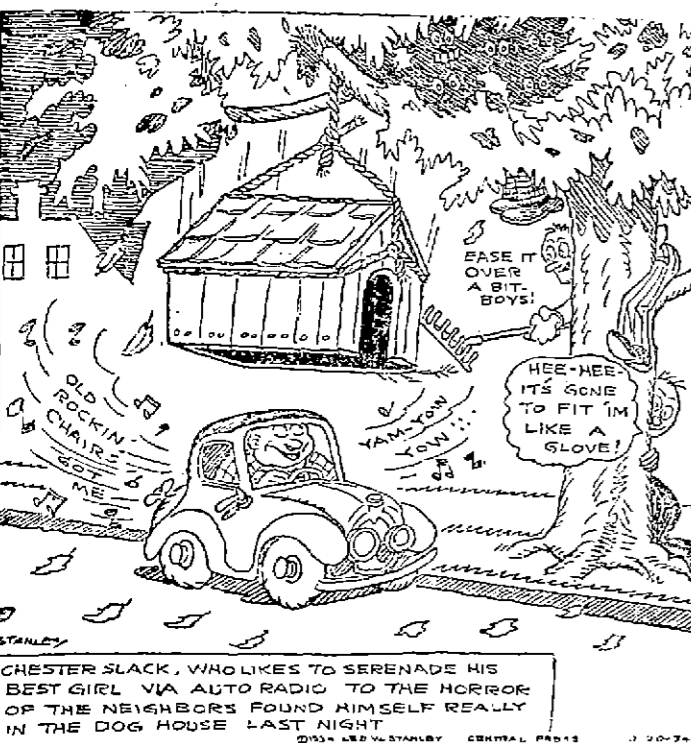

Oils were quiet.

New Turn In Liquor Drive

Confiscation Proceedings Are Asked In Illicit Liquor Case In New Jersey

(International News Service)
CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 20.—Uncle Sam's drive against the illicit manufacture of alcohol took a brand-new twist with invocation of the right to confiscate property use in moonshine operations.
Special assistant attorney general W. B. Smith filed confiscation proceedings in federal court against a 168-acre farm at Ellensburg where, the government charges, a 5,000 gallon still was found in operation last March 31.
Under Internal Revenue act, the government holds, it is entitled to confiscate the farm as part of the penalty.
Hearing on the confiscation was adjourned until Dec. 5.
"It is our purpose to enforce the right of the government to 'claim by forfeiture' as provided by the Internal Revenue act all property involved in the manufacture of alcohol illegally," Smith told the court. "This is the first move to crack down."

While the main body of stocks showed no clear cut trend, the movement of prices appeared to be toward irregularly lower levels.

Railroad shares were only moderately active and tended to work moderately under yesterday's closing prices. New York Central, Atchafalpa, Lackawanna and several other trading favorites were quiet and moderately easy.

There was little to feature the trading in industrial stocks. United States Steel, Bethlehem and American Can moved in a narrow range fractionally under yesterday's finish. Utility shares presented a similar appearance as they moved in a narrow range under the leadership of Consolidated Gas.

Low priced merchandising shares including National Dept. Stores, McClelland and City Stores, were probably the most active issues in the market advancing moderately.

The commodity markets were generally easier. Wheat and corn dipped fractionally, while cotton turned heavy after steadiness at the opening.

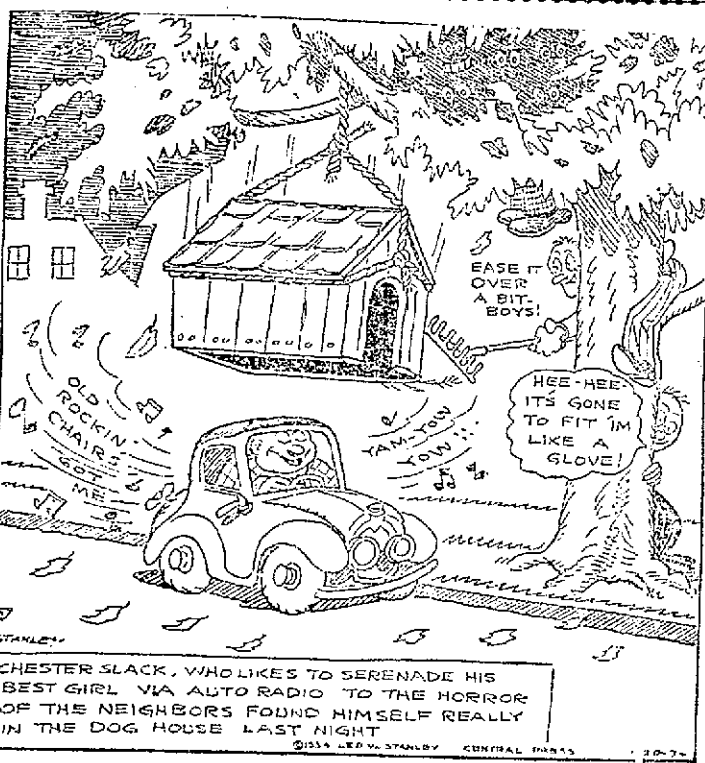

Oils were quiet.

(International News Service)
